DEWEY FIRES FIRST TRIAL BLAST

Eight High U. S. Officials Named As 'Red' Allies

Illinois Lawmaker Charges REA Official, Aid Of Secretary Of Interior Among Officers Of League 'Flavored With Stalinism;' Legion Leader Adds To Sensation.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Eight high government officials were named today before the congressional committee investigating un-American activities as members of the League for Peace and Democracy, alleged to be allied with the communist movement in the United States.

The names were placed in the record by Rep. Mason (R., Ill.) after Homer L. Chaillaux, Americanism director of the American Legion, said the league was flavored with Stalinism.

The eight officials named were:

Harry Lambertson, chairman of the Washington branch of the league and assistant administrator of the Rural Electrification administration.

Dallas W. Smyth, economist of the U. S. central statistical board, a vice-president of the league.

Fred Silcox, chief of the U. S. forestry service, treasurer of the league.

Robert Marshall, chief of the public lands division, U. S. forestry service.

Oscar Chapman, assistant secretary of the interior.

John Carmody, head of the Rural Electrification administration.

Mary Anderson, director of the children's bureau of the department of labor.

Alice Barrows, office of education, department of the interior.

Asks About Records.

Rep. Thomas (R., N. J.) then asked Chaillaux whether the American Legion files contain a record of communistic activities of government officials or employes:

The Legion official replied:

"I haven't personally seen those things in their files, but I have been told by a past commander that he has information that government employes have been active in allied communist organizations."

Chaillaux suggested to Rep. Thomas that it would be "proper" for the committee to seek Legion files from George Malloy or Tom Roberts, officials stationed in Washington.

The League for Peace and Democracy has linked to Communism several witnesses before the committee, including John Frey of the American Federation of Labor.

One of the aims of the league, Chaillaux said, is to raise funds for loyalist Spain which, he said, is admittedly a "united front"

5 CONVICTS DIE

2 More Slain as Bloodhounds Hunt Texas Fugitives.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. — (AP) — A posse killed two fleeing convicts early today and found the body of another in the Trinity river, bringing the score to five dead and one recaptured of eight who broke from the Eastham prison farm yesterday.

The two others escaped into woods this morning after bloodhounds overtook the fugitive band. Guards said the escapers stopped and tried to kill the dogs and resisted when the posse caught up.

John Hendrix Frazier, 21, Dallas, and Raymond Wilkerson, 24, were slain today. The body in the river was not identified.

POSSES TRAP 2 IN DENSE WOODS

Desperadoes Surrounded By 100 Officers In Fugitive Hunt.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. —(INS)— Two men believed to be Floyd Hamilton and Tel Walters, southwestern desperadoes, have been trapped in a woods 12 miles from DeQueen, Ark., near the Oklahoma line. Arkansas police advised Memphis detective headquarters today.

One hundred officers surrounded the timberland after the fugitives fled into it from an automobile.

Supt. of Highway Police C. T. Atkinson declared a 16-year-old girl, seized at Texarkana, had identified them. The girl had traveled with the gunmen two days and she said during that time they staged nine hold-ups.

TRAIN DERAILED

Passengers Injured in Ocean Limited Wreck in Canada.

MONTREAL—(Canadian Press) —Officials of Canadian National railways announced today that "eight or nine" cars of the Ocean Limited had been derailed 20 miles east of Levis, Quebec, but said "only a few passengers were slightly injured."

STYERT FUNERAL JAMS MORTUARY

Loudspeakers Carry Funeral Services for Director to Crowds Outside.

The rooms of the Finefrock mortuary were crowded and a large crowd assembled outside the building this afternoon for the funeral services of Tracy C. Styert, 54, Mansfield service-safety director, who died from a heart attack Sunday.

A public address system was set up so that the services might be heard by those who were unable to gain admission. Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran church, officiated.

One of the largest and most elaborate displays of floral pieces ever to be assembled for a Mansfield funeral covered two walls of the room, banked from floor to ceiling. The entire south and long west wall of the chapel were covered, representing the tributes of persons in every walk of life in the city.

Each city department sent floral tributes. One of the most striking was sent by the street department employes, a double spray of cardinal roses with a center of gardenias. There were baskets of mixed flowers from the police and fire departments and other groups of the city employes, one from city council, General hospital on whose board Mr. Styert served; from state and county Democratic executive committee, from business associates and old friends and neighbors.

Rev. Gilbert took as his subject "In His love He chose us as His own before the creation of the world."

He pointed out the fact that man's life is not his own and that he is put here for a definite purpose. Mr. Styert's life, he said, embodied three purposes: responsibility at an early age to his family and his father's business; his own work, and his service to his community and his city.

FIGHT NEW PERIL

Japanese Advance Threatened By Mosquito Invasion.

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)— Mosquitoes threatened today to paralyze the Japanese drive up the Yangtse river valley where cholera and malaria cases approached epidemic proportions.

Mosquitoes breeding in numerous lakes and flooded areas spread disease in the Japanese columns which were being diverted from Kiukiang where cholera was the worst, Chinese reports said.

DENY FOR DAVEY

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Denial that Governor Davey was considering an independent candidacy against United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley came today from Mrs. Myrna Smith and John T. Caren, secretaries of the governor.

"That's all talk stirred up by Burr Gongwer (Democrat boss of Cuyahoga county) and there's nothing to it," Mrs. Smith said.

Cleveland Torso Slayer's Toll Rises to 12

FIND BONES ON DUMP HEAP AT EXPO GROUNDS

Remnants of Two More Bodies Located; Skeleton Parts Matched by Probers.

LEAVES 'SURGICAL' MARKS

Coroner Says Killer Left Evidence Victims Were Skillfully Dissected.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND— Detectives found arm, leg and rib bones today on Cleveland's lakefront dump and Coroner Samuel R. Gerber said they were parts of the body of the 12th victim of the city's mad "torso killer."

The bones, which Coroner Gerber said matched a skull found last night 100 feet away, were those of a man.

The head and upper torso of a woman—the 11th torso killing victim—were found at the dump yesterday.

The coroner said he was satisfied, after investigation, that no 13th victim was represented. Earlier he had expressed belief the bone collection gathered in two days might be from three persons.

"But how many persons this man has murdered is a question only to be answered by his arrest, if then," Dr. Gerber said.

He declared the same methods of disarticulation and surgery used upon the earlier victims—all found since September, 1935—showed the "mad killer" was guilty of the latest deaths.

The bodies were found today and yesterday in a dump on Cleveland's lake front near the site of last year's Great Lakes exposition.

Coroner Gerber said the torso killer, as usual, left his mark of surgical skill on the remnants of the bodies.

The victims were unidentified, like all but three of the last four women and six men who met a similar fate in the last three years.

A search for scrap iron led James Dawson, 21 to the horrible remains of a woman. A curious passer-by attracted by officers at

CLAIMS $300

Copper, Ex-Patrolman, Says Water Damaged Property.

Harry Copper, former police patrolman, today had filed with city council a claim for $300 property damage caused by drainage of storm water across his property.

In a communication on file with Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., Copper said the foundation of his home on St. Clair street, his garden and lawn had been damaged.

Copper claims that the city has drawn plans for the proper drainage of the storm water to protect his property but has failed to take any action because another property owner has his fence on city property.

He charges that eight months after he built a new home in 1937 storm water damaged the foundation and says the service department "ignored my complaint." He also states that last summer and again this year his garden and lawn were washed out by storm waters.

This Should End That Weighty Heat Problem

Courtesy Halle Bros.

No doubt you have gone home from work on a hot day and remarked to your wife how you have to perspire in your heavy summer ensemble in comparison to the lightweight outfit your wife wears. And no doubt your wife has refuted that, stating her ensemble is heavier than yours. With a couple of models, a scale and a bit of arithmetic we settle the problem. Milady certainly has the best of it.

Finishes Task of Dividing $30,000 Among 118 Heirs

Probate Court Gives Flowers Will Order; Bequests to Range From $125 to Less Than $5.

Distribution of the $30,000 estate of the late Jacob Flowers, Sandusky township farmer, to 118 heirs in 14 states and one Canadian province had been ordered today by Probate Judge C. J. Anderson.

The distribution, which will be made on the basis of relationship to Mr. Flowers, will permit no heir to have more than $125, while a number of them will receive less than $5 each, court attaches said.

Although Mr. Flowers died in 1918 and his widow in 1933, final settlement of the estate was repeatedly delayed by court battles over the will left by Mr. Flowers.

Long Hunt for Heirs.

The will, which bequeathed the bulk of the estate to three religious organizations and the Mansfield Salvation Army, was overruled by the Ohio supreme court last May. The Richland Trust company, as executor of the estate, and Atty. C. H. Workman, counsel for the Flowers heirs, immediately began a nation-wide search for the heirs, who were located from New York to California and in Alberta, Canada.

The estate, most of which is in real estate, includes a 125-acre farm in Sandusky township and three properties in Galion.

DENIES DEMPSEY KIDNAP THREAT

Ex-Champ's Mother Says He Won't Leave New York.

SALT LAKE CITY—(U.P.)—Mrs. Cecelia Dempsey, 73-year-old mother of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, confirmed today that he is not coming here to avoid kidnap threats against his two daughters in New York.

After 24 hours of confusion, Mrs. Dempsey said she had only invited Jack for a visit this fall.

LAUREL 'FIRED'

Roach Studio Ends Contract With Sad-Faced Comedian.

HOLLYWOOD —(INS)— After 11 years, Stan Laurel, sad-faced comedian of the screen, was handed his walking papers yesterday by the Hal Roach studio.

They came, according to the film company, in a letter informing the star that his two years contract, with two pictures yet to go, was being terminated by his employers.

At the same time, the studio revealed that plans are under way to make a series of pictures teaming Oliver Hardy, Laurel's former partner, with Harry Langdon, who'll don makeup again after a four and one-half year absence from the screen.

RULING DUE ON ELECTION TODAY

School Board Awaits Word of State Tax Commission on Bond Election.

The Mansfield board of education today awaited the decision of the state tax commission on a request for a special election Sept. 20 to re-submit the board's proposed $550,000 school bond issue.

The tax commission was expected to act on the application, filed Monday, not later than this afternoon, H. W. Arlin, president of the school board, was told in Columbus.

Arlin took the request to Columbus and the board Monday night forwarded financial data which was requested by the tax commission.

Although it was learned by board members that the tax commission had recently turned down other requests for special elections, Arlin said attaches of the commission office indicated the Mansfield request would be granted.

The bond issue, which was defeated by a slight margin at the primary election, must be voted before Oct. 1 if the city is to receive a $450,000 WPA grant for new school buildings.

DIES FIRING AT FEDERAL AGENT

Man Killed After Wounding G-Man With Shots.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Federal bureau of investigation officers today sought the identity of a man killed here last night during a gun battle in which Leo C. Nulty, 28-year-old federal agent, was wounded.

J. E. Clegg, operative in charge of the department of justice, said his office received a call about a "suspicious person" in a downtown apartment house.

The man gave "conflicting statements," Clegg said, and when officers found several license plates from various states in his car, "he pulled a gun and started firing on our agents," wounding Nulty.

HOME GUARDED

Witness In Un-American Probe Tells of Threats.

BOSTON —(U.P.)— Police today guarded the home of Captain Alvin Halpern, 27-year-old veteran of the Spanish civil war, as result of reported death threats if he gave evidence of communist activities in Boston to Edward F. Sullican, investigator for the Dies Congressional committee.

Halpern said a man telephoned his mother that her son "won't eat breakfast tomorrow morning if he doesn't stop testifying."

Mansfield Woman, Possible Heir To Riches, Had Almost Forgotten Claim

She May Share In Final Disposition of Huge Snuff Fortune.

The fact that she may share in the $20,000,000 snuff fortune of the late Mrs. Henrietta E. Garrett, of Philadelphia, doesn't seem to concern Mrs. C. W. Curtiss, 400 West Fifth street, in the least—in fact she had even forgotten her effort to win a share of the vast holdings that are piling up at the rate of $2,000 a day.

As the intensive search for heirs to the estate left seven years ago by the widow of the snuff king continued and preparations took shape for a resumption of testimony next month to determine kinship, Mrs. Curtiss said today that three years ago she had filed a claim to a share in the estate through a Cleveland attorney, but had long ago "forgotten about" the whole thing.

She said she had not heard from her attorney in the past two years and therefore was uncertain as to the status of the claim.

Mrs. Curtiss, whose maiden name was Garrett said she believed herself to be a distant cousin to Walter E. Garrett, who died in 1895 and left his immense fortune to his widow.

She said she had no way of tracing her relationship directly to the snuff king, for her parents had lived all their life in Richland county. However, she was of the opinion that her grandparents were closely related to Walter Garrett.

Meanwhile, in Philadelphia, William Davison jr., named master by the orphans' court began the task of examining and reviewing proof of several thousand other claims before making disposition of the huge fortune.

When the aged widow died in 1931 she disposed directly of only $62,500 of the vast fortune that had been passed on to her by her husband.

Recently an unsuccessful search for a "lost" will was made and Mrs. Garrett's grave opened and the coffin inspected.

Sawyer Dems Eye Control Of Dem Party

Baer Backs O'Donnell as Executive Chairman; Kallmerten Silent.

Backers of the successful gubernatorial campaign for Charles Sawyer in the primary today moved to take over control of the Richland county Democratic organization.

G. A. Baer, head of the Sawyer campaign in Richland county, which Sawyer carried, announced today that he would be a candidate for the post of central committee chairman, and would back Attorney John C. O'Donnell, his assistant in the Sawyer campaign, for the executive chairmanship.

Milton Conley, supervisor of the Mansfield district office of aid for the aged, the present central committee chairman, has said he would not be a candidate for re-election. Appointed by Governor Martin L. Davey, he was a Davey supporter in the primary.

Kallmerten Undecided.

The situation was somewhat complicated by the silence of E. B. Kallmerten, present executive committee chairman. Although Kallmerten said immediately after the primary, "Of course, I'll be a candidate for re-election," he said today "there are certain conditions that make it impossible for me to make a statement until Saturday."

The organization meeting of the Democratic central committee is scheduled for Saturday at the courthouse.

Asked "Will you be a candidate for re-election as executive committee chairman?" Kalmerten replied, "I have no statement to make." He added, that "several members of the committee have asked me to run again, but I have given them no answer."

Baer declined to discuss reports that he might be the party's next executive head, but added that he "would accept" the leadership of the central committee.

Baer added that he "would like to see O'Donnell elected executive chairman." Baer headed the executive committee for two years, retiring in 1934.

O'Donnell was out of the city today and could not be reached for comment. He said earlier in the week, however, that he would not

HEAT BREAKS

Mercury Down to 79 at Noon; Forecast Still Says Rain.

A cool breeze last night and today brought Mansfield relief from the three-day heat wave that had sent the mercury soaring around the 90's.

After reaching a high of 88 yesterday, the temperature stood at 79 at noon today, the lowest reading since last Friday when the temperature was recorded at 81.

For the third day, showers were forecast by the weather bureau at Columbus though none has materialized. Cooler weather was predicted for tonight, with Thursday fair. The average temperature in Mansfield for the past 24 hours was 79.5, with the average for the past 13 years, 68 8.

Dewey Declares 'Fixer' Got $500 Weekly and Up to $1,000 If He Desired.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK — (INS — Chief Defense Attorney Lloyd P. Stryker characterized Tammany Leader James J. ("Jimmy") Hines as "an innocent man against whom the blackest kind of lies have been fomented" in an impassioned opening address to the jury today after District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey had branded Hine as the "protector" of the $20,000,000-a-year policy racket run by the slain gangster chief, the late "Dutch" Schultz.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey charged today that a few months after James J. Hines conferred with the late Dutch Schultz in March, 1932, arrests in the $100,000,000 policy racket of which Schultz was a leader "dropped in half."

In his opening address to the jury hearing Hines' trial on charges that the Tammany district leader was "fixer for the mob," Dewey said the defendant met with Schultz and various of his henchmen about a year after Schultz had decided to make a monopoly racket of the New York numbers game.

Advertised Connection.

"By late summer or early fall," Dewey said, "the number of arrests among this group of racketeers had dropped in half."

Made brazen by the Tammany leader's support, Dewey charged, Schultz and his associates decided "to advertise the fact that Hines was behind the racket."

"Then they opened a place at 351 Lenox avenue," (in Harlem), he continued, "where the mob con-

Takes Up Task of Fixing Pay, Hours for U. S. Workers

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—A mild-mannered former civil engineer, holder of one of the most powerful federal posts since the death of NRA, began to set up machinery today for putting a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours for millions of workers.

Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer F. Andrews, former New York state industrial commissioner, took the oath of office yesterday and immediately prepared to enforce the fair labor standards law when it becomes effective Oct. 24.

His first job—and one of his most difficult—will be determining which industries affect interstate commerce and are subject to the act, which provides for an initial minimum wage of 25 cents an hour and a maximum work week of 44 hours. It was indicated that this determination generally will follow court precedents established in national labor relations board cases since the supreme court broadened its interpretation of the constitution's interstate commerce clause.

Andrews estimated the new law would affect 4,000,000 workers.

BEAUTIFY TOMB

Workmen Install Air Conditioner in Grant Memorial.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Work to make Grant's tomb the first scientifically air-conditioned tomb to be found anywhere in the world was started today. In addition to air conditioning a new type of glass will be installed to flood the interior with sunshine. More than $200,000 will be spent to renovate and beautify the tomb.

Petting for Spite.

Jilted Ones Take it Out On Innocents

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

This is another in the series of articles on petting being presented on The News-Journal Woman's Page by the famous authority on problems of love and marriage, Beatrice Fairfax. In these articles Miss Fairfax tells the whys and wherefores of modern youth's "psychological revolution" in regard to petting, and discusses the fundamental dangers of petting along with the attitudes of both the old and young.

Are you surprised that there is such a thing as petting for spite? That certain men and women vent their hurt feelings on innocent persons as payment for real or fancied injuries they, themselves, have received.

If we had space we might discuss this mental kink from the findings of mental specialists who have studied this form of behavior; but there is only room enough to say that it's a sort of malicious "passing the buck," and that it's a pretty poor "petter" who works off his hurt pride complex on an unoffending "pettee."

You probably remember the widely-published case of a young girl who was jilted after her trousseau was ready and the wedding invitations out. To show that she was unhurt by desertion, she jilted three unoffending men in succession. Her name has dropped from the headlines; probably she is still petting for spite in Europe, where she was at last accounts.

Second-choice suitors fare badly with "spite-petters" who importune and tease only to laugh at, and repulse with a coy "You've mistaken me." These girls are, of course, people of less courage than those who get enjoyment from inflicting physical torture.

Men put up as good a show at spite-petting as women, and it's amusing today, when we have a fuller psychological knowledge of our behavior, to realize that a novel with plenty of spite-petting was the great tear-jerker of the proper generation which succeeded the Civil war. Our grandmothers and great-grandmothers wept buckets of tears over "St. Elmo." Today its extravagantly false pathos and sentimentality are funny.

If you've never read it, the story piled up agonies and revenge perpetrated by a favored son of fortune, handsome as Apollo, rich as Croesus, with blood as blue as laundry bleach. This distinctly eligible young man found his fiancee in the arms of his best friend, which curdled his blood and his sweet disposition and started him spite-petting all over the world.

He was only reclaimed by discovering that a priggish young lady, with whom he had left the key of a locked and highly ornate cupboard, had had enough control over her curiosity not to open it.

Queen Elizabeth, too, was something of a spite-petter, to judge from her behavior toward certain gentlemen who plotted with her lovely rival Mary Stuart.

Modern young people who probably do not understand the forces that urge them to this form of reprisal, often write and tell me what they intend to do "when they get a chance to pay back." They write and say they "have been kicked in the face" or "given the air" and they intend to turn 'round and do the same thing when they get a chance—but you know they don't mean it.

To pet for spite, you've got to be pretty low-down sort of person. And please don't forget that queer old dame, Human Nature, has a way of turning the tables against you, and you'll probably be petting in earnest before you're aware of it.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

I LISTENED to Dicky in astonishment as he gave the orders for the search to be made for the fugitive. Usually my father carries on his investigations with the utmost secrecy, and the local police are rarely called in. But then, I recalled with chagrin, the escape of a man like the marauder on the roof was a rare thing in our experience, and I knew how vital it was for the man to be captured.

"You are to know nothing about the man, Captain—says," Dicky went on, "except that he is a dangerous criminal and is to be returned to him personally. And you are to see to it that nobody says anything to reporters. They are not to give any description of the man they are hunting, or, indeed to say anything at all."

Gives Description.

Dicky paused to listen to the answer the man at the other end of the wire was giving him.

"That's fine," he said. "Now here is the description of the man we want. Check it carefully, and ask me any questions you wish."

He repeated what I had told him, pausing occasionally, and looking over at me for prompting corrections, which I gave him in an undertone. When he had finished, he asked the sergeant to read back the description to him very slowly, so that he could repeat it aloud for my benefit.

"I did not see this man," he explained, "and I am repeating it to the person who did so that there may be no wrong detail."

I nodded approval when he had finished repeating the trooper's version, and he spoke a last word into the phone.

"Okay," he said. "That's fine, Captain — says not to telephone here unless you have caught the man. Spread that word to the others. The less telephoning the better. Either somebody will spot him, or he'll slip through the net. But we'll hope for the best. Good-by and good luck!"

Asks for Conference.

He hung up the telephone, turned and stretched both arms high above his head and then brought them down again, a gesture of relaxation which I have seen a thousand times.

"Well! that's that," he said. "Every possible angle has been covered. Shall we go down and eat? We'll have to, I suppose, but I want to see you right afterward. Can you manage it?"

"Of course," I told him. "But I must go now and tell Mother that the queen is coming upstairs. It will never do for her to miss anything, especially when she's sacrificed her desires so nobly in order to release Katherine. And if she hasn't had time to run down the shades in the boys' room—"

"I'll attend to them," he promised. "But first I'll lower the shades in Mary's room, the barred one. That illumination thing works both ways, you know. The interiors of the rooms will be entirely visible to anyone, friend or enemy."

I shivered at the idea of lurking enemies in the darkness waiting for the kill, and Dicky spoke quickly.

"As soon as daylight comes, they'll beat every inch of the farm, and Harry and Jim will see to the old barbed wire cordon we had before. Jim has it stored away, althought I hoped we'd never have to use it again. We wouldn't either, if it weren't for these royal guests."

There was bitterness in his voice, and I knew what caused it, although I knew equally well he would not voice it out of consideration for me and loyalty to my father. But I knew that he resented the bringing of danger to the farmhouse which housed his children, even though they were protected by such elaborate precautions.

It was an echo of his thought which made me say hastily:

"It's a good thing the small boys' school doesn't open for two weeks. They're fixing the class rooms, you know."

"Yes, I know," Dicky said morosely, "but if at the end of two weeks this particular mess hasn't cleared up, we'll send the small boys away to school, and bring Katherine and Faith and Mother into the city."

"The Authority on Authorities"

PREVENTING A GUESS

Any method of playing or leading which compels your partner to make guesses which you could prevent is very bad defense. If you can see the best way to defeat the contract, and it is doubtful whether your partner can, take the old bull by the horns. Overtake his winning card, if necessary, in order to show him the way.

South's original bid on this deal was 1-Spade. North responded with 2-spades, which South took to 3-Spades. North refused to bid any more.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

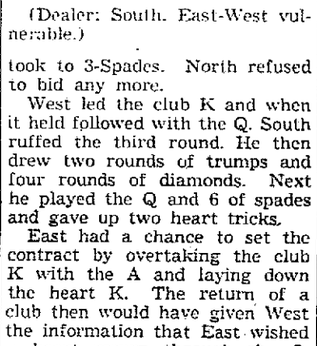

West led the club K and when it held followed with the Q. South ruffed the third round. He then drew two rounds of trumps and four rounds of diamonds. Next he played the Q and 6 of spades and gave up two heart tricks.

East had a chance to set the contract by overtaking the club K with the A and laying down the heart K. The return of a club then would have given West the information that East wished a heart return through the Q. That play would have given East-West three heart tricks and two clubs.

South had little hope of making the contract when the dummy was exposed, but took advantage of the chance offered him and his method of play brought him success.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the correct bidding on this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, August 18.

PROMISES, OMENS and portents of unpredictable character are discernible in this day's planetary map. Surprising if not spectacular occurrences may mark the day, in which tempest and turmoil, quarrels and drastic activities may hold sway, unless checked by calmness, good judgment and the restraining and subduing influence of an elderly woman.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year in which things move with the suddenness and fury of a tornado. And while there may be surprising and spectacular developments, they hold promise of much progress and definite benefits if impetuosity, recklessness, violence and wild judgment are not permitted to wreck and ruin them.

A child born on this day may be endowed with much creative ability, possibly in original or scientific lines. This, backed up by an ardent, impetuous, quarrelsome nature, and dramatic tendencies, may take it to sensational (or tragic) heights.

THEATER

THERE have to be child actors on the screens, but the length to which ambitious parents will go is one of the more disgusting features of the history of the industry. In Hollywood the other day, two very small, overly-dressed children appeared in a well known restaurant during the luncheon hour, according to coast paragraphers, asked for a drink of water and while the waiter was gone, suddenly went to the middle of the floor and into their song and dance act. Customers, who knew that a movie-mad parent was waiting somewhere outside, paid no attention to the hapless kids, and when there was silence at the end of their act, they were left standing alone and forlorn until their mother, who had arranged the "act" came in and got them. There are hundreds of pretty, cute and talented kids in Hollywood whose parents are obsessed with one idea; kids who are permanented and painted and overdressed and who haven't any more chance of crashing the movies than an untrained rabbit. It's a sickening, but frequent story in Hollywood.

Child Star at Ohio.

Jane Withers, juvenile hot pepper of the screen, goes to Hollywood in her latest picture, "Keep Smiling" and not only stirs up that blase film center but cooks up a romance between her down-and-out uncle and his pretty secretary and manages to get the uncle back on his feet again as one of the directorial biggies of the industry. Henry Wilcoxon, who made two spectacular pictures, "The Crusaders" and "Cleopatra" and then turned his back on Hollywood, plays the role of the uncle with Gloria Stewart as his secretary. The film city from "back stage" provides much of the atmosphere for the action. Jed Prouty, Helen Westley, Robert Allen and Douglas Fowley are in the supporting cast.

College Gladiator.

The campus of a mid-western college is the arena in which Joe E. Brown enters the combats to win a lady's favor in "The Gladiator," booked for the Madison the last half of the week. Joe serves as the "guinea pig" for a professor who has been experimenting with a serum which gives a human being abnormal physical strength, and because of the effects of the serum, Joe agrees to a wrestling match with Man Mountain Dean, world's heavyweight champion wrestler. The girl who inspires the combats is June Travis, pretty college girl, while Dickie Moore is an additional reason. Robert Kent and Lucien Littlefield as the experimenting professor, round out the cast.

English Cinderella.

Gracie Fields, the English stage and screen star who is seen with Victor McLaglen and Brian Donlevy in "We're Going to Be Rich" at the Majestic, is the Cinderella of the British stage. Her stage ambitions were aroused when she used to deliver the laundry back stage at the Rochdale, Lancaster theaters, and she learned to sing the current hits while waiting for her pay. A little older, she became a mill worker, but always clinging to her stage ambitions. After her first opportunity, she rose rapidly and so great is her popularity now that one of the English ships was recently named for her, the S. S. Gracie Fields. In 1936 she was voted the most popular screen player of the British empire. Besides the Field-McLaglen feature, the Majestic is showing "Zamboanga," a South Sea Island native film.

'Marry in Haste.'

Allene Corliss' novel, "I Met My Love Again," provides a screen vehicle for Joan Bennett and Henry Fonda, in which they are currently appearing at the Ritz. This is the story of a modern girl who elopes in a minute of infatuation to learn that there is a lot of sense in the old trueism "Marry in haste, repent at leisure." Years afterward she comes back to her girlhood home and meets her first sweetheart, but has to battle another woman before there is a happy ending. Alan Marshall is the other man and Louise Platt is the other girl. William Powell and Annabella in "The Baroness and the Butler," a romance of modern Vienna, is the second feature for today and Thursday.

DEWEY FIRES FIRST BLAST

Names Hines as 'Protector' of Gang in Policy Racket in New York.

gregated openly with the knowledge of every cop in Harlem."

Hines received for "taking care of protection, $500 a week," always in cash "from 1932 to 1937," Dewey said. If he wanted more money, the mob cheerfully supplied it "up to $1,000 a week," the prosecutor asserted.

As part of his "duties," Hines maneuvered the election of William C. Dodge as district attorney in 1933, Dewey said.

"He wanted Dodge, to use his s," Dewey continued, "because dge was stupid and re- and his man, because uld be harmless. Dodge go out after the Schultz cuses Predecessor.

earlier named Dodge, his or, as one of the judicial Hines allegedly "influ- ibed or intimidated" in protection for the racket.

The racket could not have operated at all, Dewey said pointing to Hines, "without this man."

Dewey explained to the jury why J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, lawyer for the gang, and George Weinberg and Harry Schoenhaus, Schultz policy bankers indicted with Davis, had pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence.

Weinberg and Schoenhaus approached the district attorney seeking protection, Dewey said.

Dewey admitted Davis was permitted to leave Tombs prison and visit the apartment of his show girl sweetheart, Hope Dare, "I think three times."

Davis went "for a change of clothes and a meal," Dewey said, adding that "Miss Dare's mother was always present."

Hines, a gray-haired politician listened closely as Dewey formally began what Hines has called "just another political fight."

Justice Ferdinand Pecora denied Dewey's request that jurors be equipped with pencil and paper to jot down the 50 to 75 names of racketeers and politicians he intends to bring into the case. Pecora said the jurors would have to depend "on their recollections."

In outlining the one conspiracy and 12 felony counts in the indictment against Hines, Dewey described the numbers game, or policy racket, as a "crooked" exploitation of "the poorer people" of New York City.

"They place penny bets, two-cent bets, nickel and dime bets," he said. "Occasionally they bet a quarter, sometimes a dollar."

But the odds, he said, "are 1,000 to 1 against their winning." The prosecutor spoke rapidly but in conversational tone and described in detail the extent to which policy players go in their eforts to pick a winning number and collect 540 to 1 on their bet.

Tells of 'Dream Books.'

He described their "dream books" and "superstitions," and the Schultz mob's methods of arriving at winning numbers. It used stock exchange statistics until the stock exchange found out about it and then employed parimutuel pay-offs at race tracks. That is the method still used by independent operators who survived the collapse of the Schultz empire.

Dewey named Otto (Abadaba) Berman, killed with Schultz in 1935, as the race track handicapper who juggled pari-mutuel figures by means of last minute bets which changed pay-offs and prevented heavily-wagered numbers from coming up.

Dewey said the game was operated very simply during 1920, but became more complicated when the Schultz monopoly emerged in the 1930's.

He listed Alexander Pompey, Joseph M. Ison, George Weinberg, Harry Schoenhaus, all state witnesses, and several others, most of them dead, as policy bankers in the summer of 1931 when Schultz decided to make policy a racket monopoly.

"He decided to make a racket by strong-arm methods, not stopping at murder," Dewey said.

Supplying legal advice and "brains" in organization of the monopoly, Dewey said, was J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, attorney who pleaded guilty and will testify for the state.

Except for a few "missing" underlings, some of whom are popularly believed dead, the Schultz gang has been exterminated or imprisoned.

Dewey will now try to convince the jury in a climatic trial that the Schultz gang survived only because law enforcers were "bribed, coerced and intimidated" by Hines, a 61-year-old machine politician with three married sons; that Hines and Schultz first conspired in 1931, and that thereafter, until long after Schultz was assassinated in 1935, Hines received from $500 to $1,000 a week from the gang.

TORSO SLAYER'S TOLL UP TO 12

Detectives Find Remnants of Two Bodies on Dump Heap at Expo Grounds.

the scene uncovered decomposed fragments of the second victim, described by Gerber as "probably another woman." A hair pin was found with the severed bones.

Remains of the first, Gerber said, indicated that she had been slain not more than six months ago. He said the other had been killed an indefinite time before.

Police said gruesome parcels containing the piecemeal dead had been in the dump not more than two or three weeks.

The first body was in four parts, the skull, upper torso and dismembered arms and legs. The torso was found concealed under stones, wrapped in butcher's paper, a dark blue suit and a torn quilt. The head also wrapped in paper, was a few feet distant. A similar package and two cardboard cartons held other segments.

Nearly 200 feet away were found the skull, in a tin can, and paper-wrapped bones of the second victim.

The coroner placed the age of the woman at between 30 and 40 years. She had light brown hair and weighed about 120 pounds.

Portions of the second victim, possibly a colored person, were so decomposed as to make it impossible immediately to determine sex or age. Eighteen X-ray pictures were expected to produce further data.

The fiend's first victims were found in the Kingsbury Run area Sept. 23, 1935.

4-H CLUBS SEND 53 TO OUTING

County Farm Groups Enjoy Session at Camp Crag, Ganyard Reports.

Eleven of Richland county's 18 townships sent 4-H club members to Camp Crag in Medina county during the recent camp period, County Agent George B. Ganyard said today. Fifty-three from the county attended the camp.

Springfield township, with 12 representatives, had the largest delegation, while Troy township was second with eight. Washington township sent six; Mifflin and Monroe townships, five each; Butler and Plymouth townships, four each; Jackson township, three, and Worthington, Madison and Jefferson townships, two each.

Members attending the camp were divided into senior and junior groups, with boys and girls over 14 years old in the senior classification and those from 10 to 14 in the junior group. Members from Richland, Ashland, Wayne and Holmes counties were in the district camp.

County Agent Ganyard directed the senior camp and N. H. Shilliday, Ashland county farm agent, was in charge of the junior camp. Miss Bertha Heichel of Ontario arranged the vesper program, and Mrs. Carl Culler of Lucas was in charge of the campfire program. Other activities were handled by extension agents and counsellors from Wayne and Holmes counties.

be ready to make a statement until Saturday.

Meanwhile, the Republican state central committee was to meet in Columbus today to plan the November campaign and set a date for the state G. O. P. convention.

Earl A. McFarland, former Mansfield mayor, is one of the 13 new members of the committee who were elected at the primary last week. The other member from the 17th district is Miss Louise Adkins, Newark, who also was elected last week.

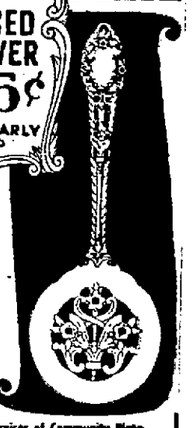

Dispatches from Columbus said Ed D. Schorr, Cincinnati, veteran chairman of the state committee, was scheduled for re-election after allegedly patching up his differences with John W. Bricker, the party's candidate for governor.

G. O. P. Changes Due.

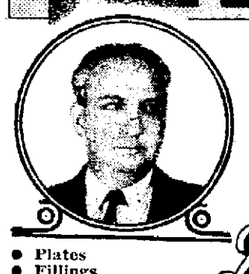

The election of McFarland to the G. O. P. state central committee over R. B. Gardner, his former political ally, forecast a change in the county Republican leadership when the central committee meets Saturday night to reorganize and plan the fall campaign.

Ralph M. Hardy, central committee chairman, who backed McFarland for the state committee post, denied reports that he is seeking the county executive committee leadership, but political observers saw his as the logical successor to Glenn L. Bierly, who has announced he will not seek re-election.

John Hess, precinct committeeman in the First ward, has been mentioned as the probable successor to Hardy in the event Hardy is elevated to the executive chairmanship.

False Teeth Wearers Are Worst Breath Offenders!
"Need More Than a Mouth Wash" say Authorities... Recommend Polident
Plates and bridges soak up odors and impurities like a sponge! A thin dark scum collects on them. This scum holds germs and decay bacteria. It is so tough that ordinary brushing seldom removes it. And it gets into every tiny crevice where brushing can't even reach. Almost always it results in "denture breath"—probably the most offensive of all breath odors.
Yet there's a perfect way to clean and purify false teeth without brushing, acid or danger. It is Polident, the powder that dissolves away all scum, stains, tarnish and odor. Makes breath sweeter—and plates or bridges look better and feel better. Tens of thousands call Polident a blessing for comfort, convenience and hygiene. Japs Challenge U. S. to Test of Strength In Shanghai

FEAR MOVE TO GAIN CONTROL OF PEACE ZONE

Foreign Diplomats Believe Nippon Might Try to Take Over Settlement Area.

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI—Foreign diplomats feared today a provocative "incident" which the Japanese army might seize as an excuse to take control of Shanghai's international settlement.

The army-controlled Japanese press openly challenged the United States and Great Britain to a test of strength in Shanghai.

The foreign diplomats said that activities of the Japanese "special service corps," whose duty it is to impress upon the settlement's 1,000,000 Chinese that they must bow to Tokyo, might possibly get out of control and that the Japanese army might give the corps its open support.

Tension Increases.

The corps said to be attempting to gain a foothold in the foreign-controlled settlement by filtering through the various defense lines of foreign nations to spread a pro-Japanese gospel.

The tension was great, similar to that when the Japanese first occupied Shanghai and at the time when the United States Gunboat Panay and the British Gunboat Ladybird were bombed by Japanese airplanes.

New incidents which broke out in connection with the week-end anniversary of the battle of Shanghai did not help the situation.

Foreign nations became involved when the municipal council, governing body of the settlement, protested to the Japanese consulate because Japanese airplanes flew over the city dropping handbills which attacked foreign nations for alleged sympathy for the Chinese.

Yesterday came the apparent answer to the protest when 20 huge Japanese bombers, accompanied by stunting pursuit planes, flew low over the settlement.

Then United States marines on patrol in the American defense sector took up tommy guns and bayonets and forced back a truckload of armed Japanese troops attempting to enter the congested Yuyching-Bubbling well road area.

British seaforth highlanders forced an armed Japanese to return to the Japanese Honkew district when he attempted to cross a closely-guarded bridge over Soochow creek.

These were regarded by diplomats as the first tests of the determination of third powers to preserve the neutrality of the settlement.

Planes, Fishing Boats Search Bay For Dodge's Body

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont. — (Canadian Press) — Planes and fishing vessels today joined in a search for the body of 21-year-old Daniel Dodge, heir to a Michigan motor fortune, who was drowned Monday night after suffering grave injuries in a dynamite explosion.

Six fishing vessels were manned by from 25 to 30 men using heavily weighted seines to drag the 90-foot depths of the inside channel where Dodge was lost overboard while hurrying with four others for medical aid.

The search was spurred by Dodge's step-father, Alfred G. Wilson of Detroit, who offered $1,000 reward for recovery of the body.

The dynamite explosion, a result of Dodge's curiosity concerning some old explosives, seriously injured him as well as his bride of 12 days and Lloyd Bryant, camp caretaker.

GETS WORD OF MOTHER'S DEATH

Mansfield Woman Leaves For Indiana To Attend Funeral.

Mrs. Van A. Sheehy, 191 East Second street, received word today of the unexpected death of her mother, Mrs. Anna Reynolds, 85, in Spikerville, Ind., yesterday.

Mrs. Reynolds was the mother of eight children, and had raised a family of 13, five being step-children by a previous marriage of her husband, W. B. Reynolds, who preceded her in death.

Funeral services are to be held tomorrow afternoon in Spikerville. Mr. and Mrs. Sheehy left for there today.

INFANT SON DIES

Funeral services were to be held at 4 p. m. today at the Wappner funeral home for Kenneth Howard Baughman, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Baughman, 172 North Benton street, who died early today at General hospital. Rev. Charles F. Sheriff was to officate, with burial in Mansfield cemetery.

Up and Down THE STREET

Boys who take the Y. M. C. A. "Gypsy Ramble" late this month probably will be singing "Oh For The Life of A Fireman"! as they leave Dayton. While in that city the group will be taken on a tour of Dayton's modern fire department, and for a short time will be given full control of the central station, in order to acquaint them with the routine and responsibility. They will also have the thrill of broadcasting a special fire alarm over the department's radio station.

This is a small world, Dr. B. W. Stern contends. He has just returned from a vacation tour through some of the eastern states and ran into many former Mansfielders. Even at a ball game, he said, he found an old friend. Attending a double-header in Charleston, W. Va., he met a former Mansfield ball player, Chuck Cronin, who is with Johnstown in the Mid-Atlantic league. Cronin pitched for Johnstown that night. After winning the first game, he served in a relief role in the nightcap to receive credit for both wins. 'Rooting for Cronin, Stern believes he did a pretty good job of out-rooting the whole Charleston crowd.

While rain spoils picnics for most people, County Agent George B. Ganyard predicted today that "a good shower this afternoon or tonight" will help to make the all-county farm picnic a success at the Fairground Thursday. If it doesn't rain, there may not even be a band, he explained, because the Ganges band, which has been asked to play, is made up largely of farmers who will thresh or make hay if the weather is good. Rain would make farm work impossible and enable the rural folks to take the day off, the county agent said.

It was an embarrassing moment for Vic Alderson, Mansfield tennis star, when he arrived at the Liberty park courts the other night and discovered he was wearing only his B.V.D.'s and not his sports shorts. Vic is accustomed to wearing his tennis apparel under his street clothes, and he hastily removed his trousers, forgetting that he had neglected to prepare for tennis. He beat a hasty retreat to his car, while a group of amused spectators laughed.

Girl Who Threatened to Leap From Hotel Faces Charge.

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—(U.P.)—Noreen Leonard, 24, today was charged with disturbing the peace for sitting on the 10th-floor ledge of a hotel window for more than an hour and threatening to jump.

Two thousand persons gathered in the street and watched Miss Leonard as she alternately sat on the ledge and on a chair balanced near the edge of the building.

Just when it appeared she was preparing to leap to the street, George Course, assistant fire chief, and Dion Crocker, business man, jumped from a window to the ledge and grabbed her.

Miss Leonard struggled with her rescuers but they pulled her back through the window and turned her over to police.

MILLER LEADS IN WYOMING RACE

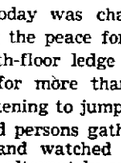

Governor Assured of Nomination; Opposes Hoover Friend.

CHEYENNE, Wyo. —(AP)— Gov. Leslie A. Miller was assured of renomination today. Returns from 350 of the state's 683 precincts gave him 9,697 votes to 3,985 for Gus Engelking, rancher, in yesterday's Democratic primary.

Rep. Paul R. Greever, Wyoming's only congressman, was unopposed on the Democratic ticket.

Greever's Republican opponent probably will be Frank O. Horton, national committeeman and personal friend of Herbert Hoover.

DICTATORS GET HULL WARNING

U. S. Secretary Asserts World Must Choose Between Peace or Destructive War.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—In a warning to dictator nations to halt their aggressive acts, Secretary of State Cordell Hull today issued an ominous declaration that the world must choose between peace or a war which may destroy civilization.

Hull called upon the small and weaker countries that are threatened by the armed might of aggressor nations in Europe and Asia, to line up with the democratic peace-seeking powers or be crushed.

To the smaller European nations he asserted:

"In the circumstances which prevail in the world today, no nation and no government can avoid participation in determining which course (force or reason) will be taken."

The issue, Hull said, is "fundamental," and added:

"Consciously or unconsciously, every country is throwing the weight of its attitude and action, positive or negative, toward one course or the other.

"The degree to which each nation will influence the ultimate decision will depend on the earnestness with which it espouses and supports the principles on the side of which it chooses to range itself."

Hull's bold appeal to the small countries of middle Europe to block the ambitions of Chancellor Hitler and Mussolini was timed to appear at the moment Germany has placed 1,000,000 armed men in the field for war maneuvers.

CLEAN UP BUILDINGS, GROUNDS AS SCHOOL OPENING APPROACHES

In preparation for the opening of Mansfield schools Sept. 7, just three weeks away, buildings are being cleaned and reconditioned and grounds are being improved, J. B. Moke, superintendent of buildings, said today.

Major improvements are at Senior high school where a new press box is nearing completion at the west side of Stadium field and a new stage lighting system has been installed in the auditorium.

Paving of Ausdale avenue at the rear of the high school building has made a number of changes necessary in the sidewalks and telephone and water lines back of the building, Moke said.

Sidewalks on both sides of the street have been moved, and telephone and water lines have been placed deeper underground to permit paving of the street, he added. The work probably will be completed before the opening of school, Moke predicted.

At Hedges school, new concrete steps have been built at the middle west entrance to the building, while plaster repairs are being completed at Western, Brinkerhoff and John Simpson buildings, the superintendent reported.

Improvements at Newman school, he said, include relaying of storm sewers from the building to the street and the placing of rock surfacing on the terrace surrounding the building. Repairs also were made to the roof of the building, the superintendent asserted.

Leaks in gas lines in all of the city's school buildings have been repaired, Moke's report said.

REACH NIAGARA

Eagle Scout Party Sends Word of Trip's Progress.

The 13 Eagle Scouts and five officials of the Johnny Appleseed Area, who set out early Monday morning on a 14-day camping trip to Canada, reached the first point of interest on the trip Tuesday, when they arrived at Niagara Falls.

According to word received from the group, they arrived at the Falls Tuesday afternoon, and were to reach their camp at Gracefield, Quebec, Tuesday evening.

The trip is being made by automobile, and is the annual camping trip of Eagle scouts in the area. In a last-minute change before leaving, Charles Mahoney replaced Robert Meese, who could not make the trip because of illness.

Floyd Dent, area scout executive, heads the five officials making the trip.

REJECTION OF BRITISH PEACE PLAN RUMORED

Paris Hears Non-Intervention Policy to Be Turned Down; Cabinet Crisis Ends.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS — Spanish Insurgents were reported today definitely to have cast their lot with Italy and Germany, perhaps thereby ending hopes of Great Britain and France to withdraw foreign volunteers from the civil war.

While Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's answer to the British plan for sending foreign fighters home from Spain remained a secret, Insurgent informants in Paris predicted its terms might mean the end of the cherished nonintervention scheme designed to halt "Europe's little world war."

The Spanish Barcelona government on July 23 accepted the plan which provides for a census of the volunteers and then proportionate withdrawals from each side.

Emphatic 'No' Expected.

Insurgent sources here expressed the belief that the Insurgent vote, given to Britain's representative Sir Robert Hodgson, in Burgos yesterday, would raise so many technical objections to the London plan that the reply might as well be an out and out "no."

The Spanish government, meanwhile, came out of a ministerial crisis apparently stronger than before, with Premier Juan Negrin firmly in control of all factors and pledged to fight the 25-months-old conflict to the end.

Two ministers ousted by Dr. Negrin's administration belong to the Catalan and Basque factions which were reported to favor an armistice.

They are Manuel Irujo, Basque Nationalist minister without portfolio, and Jaime Aguade, a Catalan Left Republican.

Thomas Bilbao Hospitalet, a Basque and the Spanish consul at Perpignan, France, and Jose Moix Regas, mayor of Sabadell, near Barcelona, replaced them.

The strength shown by the government's armies, which have taken and maintained the offensive for more than three weeks, was believed by Paris observers to have convinced General Franco he would be unable to win the war without the continued support of Premier Mussolini's Italian blackshirts.

HIKES BOOKED

Children From 3 Playgrounds to Stage Outings.

Hikes for both boys and girls are scheduled for today and tomorrow by three city playgrounds, according to Director Al Fendrick.

Both boys and girls of the Carpenter gounds will hike to South park at 4 p. m. Thursday for a picnic supper and games. The children will be accompanied by two supervisors. John Chatlain and Mary Stotts.

At 10 a. m. today the girls of North Lake park, accompanied by their supervisor, Mrs. Margaret Majoy, left on an all-day hike. This afternoon boys of the Temple court and Carpenter grounds were to leave on an overnight hike to the Y. M. C. A. day camp on the Park avenue west road. They are to return at 2 p. m. Thursday. Grant Clark and John Chatlain, supervisors, accompanied the boys.

MRS. KUHL, 73, TAKEN BY DEATH

Former Mansfield Resident Dies in Ft. Wayne Tuesday.

Mrs. Hillie Glass Kuhl, 73, a former resident of Mansfield died at her home in Ft. Wayne, Ind., Tuesday after a brief illness. A native of Wooster and the widow of Roscoe Kuhl, she left this city six years ago to make her home in Ft. Wayne.

Surviving are two brothers, Edward Glass of Mansfield and Frank W. Glass of Oshkosh, Wis., and a sister, Mrs. Charles Gray of Mansfield. She was a member of the United Presbyterian church here.

The body was returned to Mansfield and removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 3:30 p. m. Friday with Rev. E. G. Corwin of the First Methodist church officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Parliamentary Immunity Is a Blackjack in Hands of Anyone in Congress

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Maybe I shouldn't take two bites of a sad oyster but I am afraid that in yesterday's living, human document I didn't touch up all the points raised by Senator Sherman Minton who holds a legal license to lie and slander with impunity on the floor of the United States senate and in the columns of the Congressional Record.

For those who might incline to regard this as an overestimate of the senator's privilege, I call attention to the parliamentary immunity enjoyed by all members of both houses of congress. This is a legal protection against the just consequence of vicious and irresponsible defamation and willful misrepresentation of the known truth. It is a blackjack placed in the hands of anyone who comes to the halls of Capitol Hill through the byways of county and state politics.

It is also a means of blackmail, for a senator may use his immunity to persecute any individual or any interest having the ill judgment or civic fortitude to refuse financial tribute to the senator's political boss back home, or to oppose any proposal, however foul, advanced by any senator, however low.

Conferred originally in the interests of freedom of debate on the wistful assumption that patriot-statesmen would not debase it, the immunity has been used as the shield of the liar and the refuge of the coward. And the Congressional Record has potentialities, already well explored, far beyond the audacity of the most brazen blackmailer of the lay press.

Senator Minton, regularly licensed to lie and slander, has been attacking the veracity of the press in pursuit of his proposal to muzzle the papers in retaliation for their opposition to the reorganization bill. This bill was defeated by a vote of his collegues by Democratic process, and not by the press, so the senator's wrath would seem to have chosen the wrong victim.

His proposal was what legislators and lobbyists call a strike bill. A strike bill is a bill offered in the guise of sincerity to harm a person or interest against whom the author holds a feud. Senator Minton's insincerity was admitted when he conceded that he had offered his censorship proposal merely for moral effect. It was, in general effect, a warning that the American press, in opposing New Deal measures under debate in congress, exposed itself to a risk of censorship by the New Deal.

He made the proposition that the free press privilege implies an obligation to avoid willful untruth. I will take him up on that with the proviso that the right of free speech lays a similar obligation on senators as well as minor campaign orators and the clergy.

"I didn't want to muzzle the press," Senator Minton said in a speech last Saturday. "I just wanted to muzzle the liars who knew they were lying."

It is sometimes hard to recognize a lie and to prove willfulness but, up to a certain point, lying and slander are punishable even now, except in the exclusive, privileged company which Senator Minton adorns with his learning and his conscience. The publisher may be sued or prosecuted for libel. And, theoretically, the political windjammer on the stump and the rogue preacher, spattering sweat and venom from his pulpit, as happened in 1936, may be held legally accountable for slanderous remarks.

Yet, if Mr. Minton's proposal were extended to speech, he would stifle controversy outside the legislative halls and forbid the propagation of religious faith by the preaching of divine, but not legally provable mysteries. Some authority would have to decide which party to a political debate was wrong and therefore guilty of untruth. And no fundamentalist would be safe in the open propagation of his belief.

Judging by his citations, Mr. Minton leans to the radical press and radical critics of the conventional press as authorities on truth. In that he seems to disqualify himself as a judge of veracity, for his radical friends are second only to the licensed liars of the legislative halls in their abhorrence of truth and in the malice and wantonness of their slanders. But they are a poor second, for nobody else can be expected to lie and slander with the total abandon of a group who reserve legal right to abandon fact and the merest seeming of decency in the furtherance of their cheap and miserable political ambitions.

In approximately the words of Senator Minton, I don't want to muzzle the United States. I just want to muzzle the liars who know they are lying.

Hollywood Speaks---

--By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—More about screen supervisors:

The Screen Director's Guild "analysis"—blaming the "inept" among associate producers for much movie waste—said it one way. That was the serious, or we-mean-business way.

But the supervisor (or associate producer) has been taking it from the jokesmiths since Hollywood stopped growing oranges and took up fruit of other odors.

Without the supervisor, the Hollywood jokebook would be a poor thin volume devoted to the malaprop classics of Samuel Goldwyn, Harry Cohn, Jack Warner, "Uncle Carl" Laemmle, an occasional director or star. With the supervisor, the jokebook's encyclopedic. Wanna sample it?

The granddaddy of all movie jokes is this hoary classic, vintage 1911, when Hollywood hadn't yet annexed Los Angeles.

The director had ambitions. He was going to do a BIG outdoor epic. He was going on location. He had picked the spot.

"Just think—gorgeous trees, wonderful rocks!"

"How much?" said the producer. (The supervisor hadn't been spawned yet but was on his way.)

The director told him. Said the producer: "A tree's a tree and a rock's a rock—shoot it in Griffith Park!"

Oh, all right—it's the Great Granddaddy.

MANY associate producers today—Kenneth McGowan, Robert Lord, Henry Blanke and others the directors admire and respect for their works—are scholarly gentlemen, but here's the earliest definition of a supervisor: "A man who knows what he wants—but can't spell it."

Then there's this one: The associate producer wanted an assistant. He interviewed applicants. "How much is 2 and 2?" he shot at the first.

"Four!" snapped the job-hunter.

"Hm——m——fast guy, huh? You wait outside."

To the second, the same brain test. "Two and two? Lessee—er—four . . ."

"Hm——m. I like a man what thinks things over. Wait outside."

The third didn't even gulp. "Five," he retorted.

You're supposed to ask which got the job. The third, of course. And why? "Oh, he was the associate producer's nephew."

AND the foreign star was having trouble with her consonants. She couldn't say 'em. The supervisor got word, came running, his gigantic brain working.

"Trouble with consonants, huh? Well, we fix the script. We take out all the consonants, and put in vowels! Get going!"

Inspiration—if you believe the yarns—is a commonplace among supervisors. It strikes, but then again it does a sit-down strike and comes only after deliberation and much contemplation of the supervisorial navel. The hero of this one had heard somewhere that minor chords in music tended to depress the listener. He thought it over. Several days later he issued this dictim: "From now on we have no minor chords in our musical scores. We want our audience to be happy."

Colored Champion Favorite

Crowd of 15,000 Expected to See Henry Try for Third Title in Garden.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—If they don't melt down and run off in a puddle, Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers will gang up on each other for 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden tonight, with Ambers' 135-pound title at stake.

It promises to be a hot event, with upward of 15,000 onlookers stuck to their seats in the big Eighth avenue emporium.

No Postponement.

One thing is certain: Rain cannot interfere with the festivities as it did last Wednesday night at the Polo Grounds, when Promoter Mike Jacobs swallowed a $10,000 installation loss and hoped he could get it back indoors.

The postponement has not affected the betting odds. The men with talking money still are offering up to 3-to-1 that Armstrong leaves the ring the holder of the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight championships, the first triple-plated crown wearer in boxing history.

A loud minority, however, is convinced that the up-state Italian will out-leg and out-punch the phenomenal little colored king and retain his title, disrupting Armstrong's run of 38 consecutive victories.

If Ambers should win, he will not be recognized as the welterweight champion in New York state. The commission pulled the rival managers and Promoter Jacobs in on the carpet yesterday and made them sign an amendment to the original contract, stipulating that "no title except the lightweight is at stake."

Regardless of that, Ambers will, of course, claim the 147-pound throne if he wins, and there will be widespread confusion because the National Boxing association has served advance notice that it will recognize his claim.

Holds Weight Edge.

Nothing of importance has happened to either fighter since they weighed in a week ago. Ambers at 135 and Armstrong at 133¼.

Jacobs claims the postponement has increased the ticket sale and that there will be $100,000 in the house tonight.

Canzols Play All-Star Club

Tangle at Liberty Park at 5:45 P. M. Today.

The last of the three all-star games staged by each city recreation baseball league this season will be staged at Liberty park at 5:45 p. m. today when the Canzols, champions of the Senior league, face the Senior league All-Stars, selected from rival teams.

Thursday the Shaughnessy playoff will be opened by the four top Senior league teams at Liberty park.

In the opening game Thursday, the Canzols will face the team which finished in third place. The second and fourth place clubs will tangle Friday. The two winners will meet Tuesday.

The members of the all-star team are Alton and Brightbill, catchers; Boyer and Casad, pitchers; Fools, first; Peal, second; Donnan, short and Yarman third; Remy and Doty, utility infielders and Russell, Rose and Lewis, outfield.

Gas Mask Saves Capt. Eyston From Possible Disaster

BONNEVILLE SPEEDWAY, Utah —(INS)—A gas mask which Capt. George E. T. Eyston, English speed driver, wore while hurtling his gigantic 24-cylinder "Thunderbolt" over the Bonneville salt flats at 270 miles per hour was credited today with saving him from possible disaster.

"I'm mighty glad I was wearing that mask," Captain Eyston declared after warming up his car Tuesday in preparation for an assault on the world measured mile speed record of 311.42 miles per hour. "Otherwise, it might have been most difficult."

The enclosed cockpit was filled with fumes from the two motors and the brakes. Captain Eyston said he would alter it to lessen the menace of gas.

CITY RECREATION GAMES CALLED OFF THURSDAY

Due to the farmers' picnic to be held at the Fairground Thursday, all games scheduled in the city recreation Intermediate and Junior leagues on that day will be postponed. The only game to be played Thursday in either league will pit the Cubs against the Reds in a postponed game at Liberty park at 1 p. m.

Attention, Old Timers!

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

CARL MAUL made his annual visit to the sports department today, and, as usual, it was in the interest of the old-time ball players.

Long before the New York Yankees became the power that they are in baseball, Carl and a bunch of the boys who provided the diamond entertainment in this town some years ago inaugurated a series of annual picnics.

These annual meetings afforded the old-timers a chance to renew all acquaintances, talk over the diamond deeds of years ago and also to play a game of baseball.

This year the old-timers will hold their annual outing at Spiker's grove, out Marion avenue way, Sunday, Aug. 28, and a picnic bigger 'n' better than ever will be staged, according to Press Agent Carl.

The affair is not confined to Mansfield old-timer ball players alone, Carl points out. All old-time ball players of this vicinity are invited to participate. "The more the merrier," is Mr. Maul's slogan.

A small fee will be asked for tickets to cover the expenses for the usual picnic fare—lunch and beer.

Mansfield Has Chance To Get Even.

SHELBY members of the Westbrook Country club have won the club tournament at the Springmill road course on several occasions. So it should not be against the law for a Mansfield to win on a Shelby course. Such a happening is possible this year with Nick Linster in the finals of the Shelby club elimination. Nick's foe in the finals to be held Sunday, Aug. 28, will be Jack Tiffany.

Dugger

Mansfield high school's football and basketball hopes for the coming season suffered a blow this week when it was learned that Jack Dugger, whom Coach Russ Murphy developed into a crack athlete, has left the city with his parents for Dover. His absence next fall and winter will force a change in Murphy's scheme of things.

* * *

Johnny Barrett, who made the biggest advance of any of the Mansfield Red Sox of last year, continues to do his bit toward keeping Hazelton, Pa., in the Eastern league title race. According to word received from the outfielder by Johnny Newton, Barrett misses Mansfield, but is glad to get the opportunity to play in the class of ball in which he is now playing. Barrett also sent along a clipping of a picture of him which appeared in a Hartford, Conn., paper. It shows Barrett posing with another Lowell, Mass., boy, who is a member of the Hartford club.

It Costs Money to Operate Grid Club.

IT COSTS real coin to equip a football team of 50 men, according to the tentative budget approved for next fall's Mansfield high school club.

Guarantees for appearances of opponents at Stadium field will cost $875, expenses for taking the Tygers to out-of-town games will amount to $525, 2,800 cleats run up to $140, shoes strings(which might be considered a minor item) will mean an outlay of $7.44, socks will cost something like $24, first aid supplies will run in the neighborhood of $162, and new footballs will come to $106.

Yessiree, it costs plenty. But there should be no kicks if the profits are enough to wipe out the expenses, and it has been many years since Tyger footballers failed to more than pay their own way.

LOOK FOR OPPONENTS

The Rex Billiards are open for out-of-town baseball games on Aug. 21 and 28. Teams interested contact John Stoner at Dover 1965.

Budge Romps To Two Wins

McNeill Loses to Hunt in Newport Tourney.

NEWPORT R. I.—(INS)—J. Donald Budge, world tennis champion from California, opposed Archie Henderson, of Chapel Hill, N. C., as play today advanced into the fourth round in the Newport Casino's 22nd annual invitation tournament. Budge has been backed into favoritism.

Following a first-round bye, Budge disposed of Young Robert Low, of New York by 6-2, 6-2, and then won his bracket in the fourth round by crushing Owen Anderson, another Californian, 6-0, 6-3.

Other matches today will pit Wilmer Allison against Johnny Van Ryn, Frankie Parker against Frank D. Guernsey, jr., Bryan M. "Bitsy" Grant against Jack Kramer, jr., Joe Hunt against Gene Mako, William Murphy against Yvon Petra, Elwood Cooke against Gardnar Mulloy and Sidney B. Wood, jr., against Hal Surface.

Hunt defeated Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, 7-5, 6-4, and later downed Frankie Shields, of New York, former first ranking player of the country, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

1938 to Be Banner Season for Hemsley

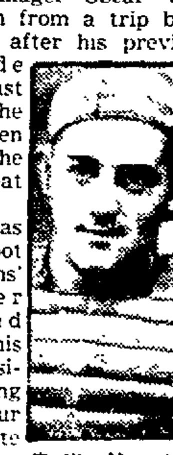

Former 'Bad Boy' Continues Good Work With Indians In New Bat Spot, Collects Two Hits.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—The Cleveland Indians' chase for the American league pennant appeared futile today, but regardless of where the Tribe finishes the season will be a banner one for Catcher Rollie Hemsley.

After 11 seasons in the major leagues during which he gained for himself recognition as one of the finest catchers in the game, but a player who had a negative value to a team because of his inability to conquer himself off the field, Hemsley abandoned the role of "playboy" and no longer can justly be called "Rollicking Rollie."

Keeps Faith.

Hemsley's determination to keep faith with Manager Oscar Vitt, who saved him from a trip back to the minors after his previous conduct made him an outcast elsewhere in the majors, has been reflected in the backstop's great play.

Rollie Hemsley

Hemsley was in the No. 3 spot in the Indians' batting order yesterday and demonstrated his right to the position by securing two hits in four trips to the plate as Cleveland won a 9 to 6 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

When he came to the Indians, Hemsley was labeled "Bob Feller's catcher," but he has proved his all around worth to such an extent that he is now regularly working with Mel Harder and Earl Whitehill also.

Hemsley has a seasonal batting mark to date of .278, a gain of 55 points over his last season's mark. His handling of hurlers is near perfect.

Harder was Cleveland's starting pitcher and lasted long enough to gain credit for his 10th triumph of the season. After giving up 11 hits in seven innings, the veteran curve ball artist had to have help from Rookie Johnny Humphries who promptly quelled the Browns' threat.

Hale Gets Homer.

The Indians battered four St. Louis pitchers for 12 hits, seven of which were good for extra bases. Included in the barrage were a home run by Sammy Hale, triples by Campbell and Trosky, and doubles by Heath and Hemsley.

Despite the victory Cleveland lost ground in the flag chase as the New York Yankees downed Washington twice. The Tribe now lags by eight full games.

The clubs were to meet here again today with Johnny Allen and Oral Hildebrand as the opposing pitchers.

Tally 10 Runs Before Permitting Losers to Score.

The league leading Giants defeated the city recreation Junior All-Star team, 11 to 7, in the annual all-star game at the Fairground yesterday before a crowd of 250.

The Giants obtained a 10-run lead before the All-Stars were able to counter with two runs in the fourth. The winners sewed up the decision in the third when they put five runs across the plate as the defense buckled behind Miller.

Nameth's hitting relief pitching featured the All-Stars' play. Nickolaus and Robinson secured two hits apiece for the Giants

CHAPTER 18

Like many a girl has before her, Noel came to a sudden firm resolve. She would put Julian Paige out of her life, and her thoughts.

That evening Chris Landers came back to the Peacock. Noel was overjoyed to see him. There was something so clean and fine and sweet about Chris. She liked him very much. With a little effort, she could like him a great deal more. And she needed just the very sort of friend Chris wanted to be.

She had heard it said that the way to get one man out of your mind was promptly to interest yourself in another. So here was Chris, blond and debonair and likeable always looking at her with admiration in his gray-green eyes, and paying her pretty compliments which were like honey to her sadly deflated ego after Julian's cool indifference.

It ought to be easy to fall in love with Chris, Noel decided.

The next night, before going to the Peacock, Noel had a simple dinner of soup and a sandwich at a little place on Main street. But her appetite, which had been so lusty for a while, now seemed to have deserted her. She managed the soup, but the sandwich was left untasted, although she knew she should have eaten it regardless of whether she wanted it or not. Dancing was strenuous exercise.

Promptly at the hour she was at the Peacock, hoping that Chris would be there. The hours didn't seem near so long when he came. She slipped into the brocade and the new slippers, which did not feel very comfortable because they were stiff. Noel hoped they wouldn't hurt her feet. If she had only thought, she would have realized that it was better to get at least a half size larger when buying cheap shoes. But it was too late to think of that now.

There were not so many dancers at the Peacock tonight, and Noel found herself actually sitting out a few dances, a fact for which she was grateful indeed because the new sandals really were hurting her feet.

Many of the girls were sitting out tonight at the tables lined against the walls. Most of them were a great deal more friendly now. Even the tall dark girl who had been so catty at times often gave Noel a friendly smile.

Maida was back tonight. She came up and stood for a moment beside Noel. There was a thick coating of rouge on her rather thin hollow cheeks. She had been sick, she said, and terribly afraid Nick wouldn't let her come back. But he had.

"Say, kid, how on earth do you do it?" she asked.

"Do what?" Noel asked puzzled.

"You know, make 'em come back again and again and beg for dances. And you even know how to handle Nick, and tell him where to get off, and he likes it. And that young fellow, he's a swell or somethin' — anybody can see that he's nuts about you," she broke off. Then exclaimed, "Look, there he is!"

A rush of warmth came to Noel's heart as she looked up and saw Chris standing there in the middle of the floor, his eyes searching for her. In another minute he was moving toward her.

Maida smiled and walked on.

Chris had a long string of tickets, and the thought came into Noel's mind that perhaps Nick wouldn't mind it if she danced a number of times with Chris tonight since there wasn't a very big crowd.

* * *

Then she and Chris were dancing. And he was looking down at her from his tall height. "Haven't been able to get you off my mind. The way you dance, the way you look, your pretty gold hair and blue eyes—everything about you. 'Fraid I've got an awful crush on you, sweetheart."

"I'm glad — you came back, Chris," Noel murmured. "I was hoping you would."

"Did you miss me?" he asked.

"A lot," Noel assented.

"Well, then." Chris went on in his blithe boyish voice, "you won't be missing me any more. Not when there's a chance to see you and dance with you. Besides there's a special reason why I've been thinking of you—" he broke off then, and his boyish face darkened. "But first, you must tell me something. Is there anything between you and this Luigi fellow. Tell me the truth."

"Of course there's not," Noel exclaimed quickly. "I dislike him, and I'm getting away from this place before long."

Chris almost stopped dancing at that. His arms held her a little more closely. "And am I glad of that? Now, listen, I shouldn't be surprised if I can't find you a way to get away from here. I may be in a position to make you an offer—"

Noel gave him a quick questioning look. "Oh, I mean, in a perfectly nice way," he hastened to say. "I'll tell you about it when—my plans are better formulated."

They had drinks then, and danced another dance. Then Chris beckoned to a number of the dancers and bought drinks around. He certainly didn't mind spending money, and seemed to have plenty of it, which was possibly the reason Nick had not again interfered with his taking up Noel's time.

But even at that, Noel thought it best to dance with some of the others who were asking her for dances, even though she hated herself for her weakness in trying to keep Nick in a good humor.

And then she was dancing again with Chris and enjoying it so much because their steps matched so beautifully. And Chris wouldn't let anybody cut in, though several tried. "Ever do any professional dancing?" he asked.

Noel said she hadn't.

"Takes an awful lot of energy and you've got to be strong."

"Are you a professional?" Noel asked. She felt that Chris might easily be from the beautiful, graceful way he danced.

Chris smiled and admitted that he was. And then went ont with his first train of thought. "But I don't suppose it takes much more, if any more, energy dancing professionally than it does in a place like this."

"I don't believe it would," Noel said with the knowledge born of her experience. "You see, you have to dance with so many different kinds of dancers. Some of them can dance, and lots of them are rank amateurs. And there are so many cut-ins, and while the dances are short, the intermissions are shorter."

"You can't tell me. I know it's strenuous work," Chris said. "But in a way it's absolutely splendid practice. And I'm really glad because—" But Chris didn't finish for Nick was standing there with another man he had brought to claim a dance with Noel. This was one of the men who had tried to cut in, and he gave Chris a look of malice when he put his arms around Noel and danced away with her.

"That blond fellow can't have everything his way, you know," he said to Noel.

She didn't even look up at him, and didn't consider it necessary to answer. She was paid to dance, but her conversation was extra.

When the dance was finished, Noel's partner looked down upon her a little ruefully. "Did I make you angry?"

Noel shook her head. Then said apologetically, "I'm sorry. I have on a pair of new slippers and they're rather tight."

The man bowed politely and went away. Then Noel saw Chris at the tables, buying drinks again. It occurred to her that he too was trying to keep Nick in a good humor.

He waited until Noel had finished several other dances, then quite coolly took possession of her. As soon as they danced off, he said, "Say, sweetheart, when will this thing be over? Does it go on forever and forever?"

"We close a little after 1," she told him.

Chris looked at his watch. "Then it won't be long now. And of course I'm going to take you home. Got things to talk over."

Noel nodded. She wasn't feeling half as tired as she thought she would be, even though the shoes were too tight. But Chris' presence was stimulating. Also the cocktails she had had gave her an artificial strength.

Noel, of course, had no idea what had happened at the De Luxe about 10, just when Laurie was getting ready to leave.

Julian had come in and asked her again about Noel. Then he wanted to know where to find her. Quite innocently Laurie told him that she was dancing at the Peacock where she had been for quite some time. And that the place would close at 1.

So Noel, all unsuspecting, was dancing the last dance with Chris and laughing and feeling a little happier than usual.

She left Chris waiting and went in the dressing room to get out of the hateful brocade. When she came out, Chris was waiting at the entrance. And so was Julian, his eyes very dark and angry.

NEW CLOTHES

For All the Family

NEW FURNITURE

For Your Home

A NEW CAR TO DRIVE!

These things add zest to life, make all the family smile, feel good, think that life's worth while—

AND YOU CAN HAVE THEM!

"Step right out" and get what you need. Better times are ahead, and you can benefit right now!

"Sure," you say—"I'm for better times. But what can I do about it? When I make more money, I'll spend it. That ought to help."

It will help; make no mistake about that. Working dollars mean working men—anytime. But it isn't really necessary for you to make more money in order to enjoy better times. Because any time when you have a job . . . when that job is secure . . . and when you can buy more goods, or more value, for less money . . . then those times for you are good.

That opportunity is yours right now. Prices everywhere — for everything—are low. Possibly you have been holding off buying, wondering how far down they'd go. But now you know . . . better times are ahead, and—if history means anything at all—better times will bring rising prices.

So, before they start rising—BUY! That's the way to make your buying dollars go farther. That's the way to make your income proportionately larger right now. And for every dollar you spend you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that you're putting some man back to work and that you're making your own job a little more solid.

All Mansfield Merchants are co-operating to offer you the season's choicest goods in all lines at the very lowest prices. Have confidence in yourself, in your job, in your country! Budget your needs now, then read the advertising! Shop the stores!

HULL'S PEACE PLEA INSPIRES STOCK MARKET

Mart Chalks Up Third Straight Advance as Leaders Show Extreme Gains.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market chalked up its third straight advance today, leaders showing extreme gains running to more than 2 points. Trading continued at a relatively slow pace.

Speculative sentiment was helped by the world peace call made last night by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who expressed this country's concern over the ominous war-clouded European picture, and called for international co-operation to carry out a seven-point program.

There was little of note in the day's business news. Mid-week statistics contained nothing of a price making nature, electric power output gaining on the week but widening the decline from a year ago. Iron age reported a slight tapering off in new steel business, but found operations holding relatively well.

The market was strong from the start, when chemicals, steels and motors paced advances of a point or so. These gains were increased through the first half-hour but light profit-taking later pared extreme gains.

Building shares, coppers, oils, rubbers, rails and utilities all were well above previous closing levels, but showed smaller gains than the pace-making steels, motors and chemicals. A few scattered issues lagged, including American Can and Woolworth.

U. S. Steel was strongest in the steels, opening a point higher on a sale of 2,000 shares at 58½, then moving above 59 for a top rise of almost 2 points. National was up more than a point, following by Bethlehem, Youngstown, Crucible and Republic.

SCHOOL GARDEN CONTEST PRIZE WINNERS LISTED

24 Pupils to Receive Awards From City Board, Garden Club Members.

The names of 24 prize winners in the annual garden contest for Mansfield school pupils, sponsored by the board of education and city garden clubs, were announced today by members of the garden clubs committee.

Four cash prizes, ranging from four dollars to one dollar each, will be paid by the school board to winners in six city districts. A plaque will be awarded to the Bowman school for its 43 entries and 27 completed projects.

The contest this year attracted 180 entries as compared with 120 last year. Completed projects this year totaled 128, while only 66 pupils completed their gardens in 1937, the committee reported.

Show Best Percentages.

The Western avenue, Hedges, Prospect, Brinkerhoff and Bushnell schools had the best percentages of gardens completed, the figures showed. Western avenue pupils completed four projects out of four and Bushnell had three for three. Twenty-seven of 30 Hedges entries were judged, and 10 of 12 Brinkerhoff pupils who started gardens completed them. Sixteen of 19 Prospect school projects were completed.

Prize winners are:

District No. 1, (Hedges school)—Bobbie Broyles, first prize; Billy Fassos, second; Doris Hawkins, third and Dean Pittenger, fourth.

District No. 2, (Prospect school)—Betty Wynn, first; Jean Marie Schooley, second; Mary Benninghof, third, and Marian Catharine Caton, fourth.

District No. 3 (Woodland, Carpenter and West Fifth street schools)—Richard Orr, first; Nancy Twitchell, second; George Loesch, third, and Burton Lorentz, and Donald Chapman, fourth.

District No. 4, (Newman and Bushnell schools)—Richard Baker, first; Russell Konves, second, Dean Schuler, third, and Stella Petrovic, fourth.

District No. 5, (Bowman school)—Maxine Stevens, first; Vareta Walters, second; Dolores Faust, third, and Jean Baker, fourth.

District No. 6, (Western and Brinkerhoff schools)—Bud Porter, first; Bob Willis, second; Lloyd Shawber, third, and Jean Wentz, fourth.

BIRTH CONTROL LAW ATTACKED

Woman Physician, Social Workers Appeal Convictions.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—A woman physician and three social workers have appealed to the supreme court in an attack upon constitutionality of the sweeping anti-birth control law of Massachusetts. They were Dr. Lucille Lord Heinstein, and Carolyn T. Gardner, Flora Rand, and Pamelia Faris.

All appealed from conviction in the Essex county superior court on a charge of distribution of birth control literature.

In their appeal they agreed that the state can regulate distribution of contraceptives to prevent their illegitimate use, but asserted that the act goes further and prevents physicians from giving advice when necessary for preservation of life and health.

POP FLOWS IN STREET

SAPULPA, Okla.—(U.P.)—Sapulpa's Oak street ran red — with soda pop. About half a truck load of 9,995 bottles slithered to the pavement when the side of a truck gave way. "It was quite a mess," James Sawyer, the truck driver, said of the broken glass and splattered liquids.

TRIAL EXPENSIVE

Marion County Murder Case to Cost More Than $5,000.

MARION—(INS)—Marion county today surveyed the expense of the murder trial of Harvey Roush, 48, and found it one of the most expensive on record, the outlay expected to pass $5,000 before Roush's appeal is disposed of. Roush received the death sentence for the murder of Homer T. Myers. He also was indicted in the death of Myers' wife.

CRESTLINE—Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Anderson went to Cleveland Monday where the former entered Cleveland clinic for observation.

TWO TOURNEYS SCHEDULED FOR PLAY CENTERS

Horseshoe and Paddle Tennis Tournaments to Be Held in City This Week.

An adult horseshoe tournament Thursday evening, and a paddle tennis tournament Friday will be the feature activities at Mansfield playgrounds this week, Al Fendrick director, announced today.

The horseshoe tournament will be staged at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at Prospect park. Participating will be the champion pitchers from Liberty, Johns, Prospect and North Lake parks.

Each park will be represented by three contestants, one of which will compete in the singles match, and two in the doubies. The champions were selected through elimination tournaments conducted at the different grounds.

Booked For 2 Parks.

The paddle tennis tournament will be an inter-playground event, and will be staged at Liberty and North lake parks. Children from the Madison, Garden Acres, Bushnell, Hedges, Johns park and Liberty park grounds will compete in the tournament at Liberty park.

Children from North Lark park, Temple court, Brinkerhoff, Carpenter, South park and Prospect park grounds will participate in the North Lake park tournament. The tournaments are open to both boys and girls and will be staged on the tennis courts at the parks.

Also scheduled for this week will be the play-off in both the junior and intermediate baseball leagues. The two leagues will finish their regular schedules Thursday. The play-offs will be held at the Fairground. The senior league all-star game will be between the Canzols, winning team in the league, and a team made up of players from the other teams.

According to Fendrick, the O'Shaughnessy play-off system will be used to determine the winner in each league. Each winning team will receive a trophy, and members of the winning teams be presented with individual gold baseballs.

The 12 city playgrounds will close their summer program, Friday, Aug. 26. For the closing day a picnic and play day has been arranged for all grounds. The play day activities will be held at North Lake and Liberty parks. John Chatlain will be in charge of activities at North Lake park, and Miss Lois Baughman will conduct activities at Liberty park.

CIVILIANS GUARD ARMY PROPERTY

They'll Be Watchmen Till Air Base's Completed.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — (AP) — The army isn't weakening or anything, but it's going to hire civilian guards to look after its new $7,000,000 air base here.

This was revealed by Lt.-Col. Harry A. Strauss, who will be commandant. The civilian guard will be on duty during final construction phases, but will be discharged when the army actually takes over.

Accident Widows Dodge Bride

Dodge honeymoon cottage.
Mrs. Laurine Dodge left.

Cinderella bride of only two weeks, Mrs. Laurine MacDonald Dodge, now is a widow following the death of her husband, Daniel George Dodge, heir to a share in the $9,000,000 automobile fortune, who was drowned in Georgian bay, Ontario, Canada. Young Dodge either jumped or fell from a motorboat while being taken to a hospital for treatment after an accidental discharge of dynamite had torn off his arm and fractured his skull. The honeymoon cabin at which the accident occurred is shown at top. Mrs. Dodge is a former telephone operator at Gore Bay.

PICK UP SPEED

Auto Industry Gets Ready for Production Season.

DETROIT—(INS)—Michigan's vast automobile industry is unlimbering for the 1939 model production year, slowly calling back its long-idle workers.

The inventory period shut downs are ending and tool and die workers are returning to the plants to do the preparatory work that will put the factories in a position to begin full time production in late October or early November.

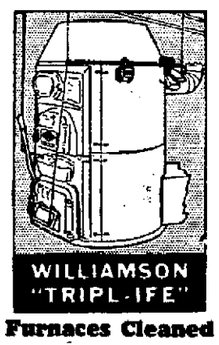

Motor parts plants, which usually begin full time work earlier than the automobile plants, are also picking up speed to supply auto plants with parts for the coming production year.

SEEKS TO ADD 3 DEFENDANTS TO TAX ACTION

Motion Filed in Taxpayer's Suit Involving Personal Levies Here.

A motion asking that County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, County Treasurer John E. Kolb and the state tax commission be made party defendants in personal tax suits involving four extensive Mansfield properties had been filed today in common pleas court by counsel for Michael Hallabrin, plaintiff in the cases.

The actions which were filed several weeks ago, seek to require the owners of two properties and the executors of two estates to show the amount of personal taxes paid on the properties between 1926 and 1932.

Attacks Exemptions.

The suits charge that tax returns were incomplete and that exemption from payment of personal levies was obtained under a law which later was ruled unconstitutional.

Defendants named in the suits are Donald S. Black and others, as executors of the estate of the late Frank B. Black; J. A. Rigby, president of the Citizens National Bank and Trust company; Harry S. Black, president of the Farmers Savings and Trust company, and the Citizens National Bank and Trust company as executor of the estate of the late Burton Preston.

On the motion of the defendants, an injunction was granted in common pleas court recently, restraining the plaintiff's counsel from examining county and state tax books for information to be used in the case.

Hallabrin, who filed his action as a taxpayer, is represented by Atty. Joseph A. Bayer, Mansfield, and Attys. Hart, McHenry and Jones, Canton.

WEDNESDAY AUGUST 17 1938

Whenever the weather sets any kind of a "new mark" it's sure to be uncomfortable.

What can really be done will probably seem tame, as compared with all of the promises that have been made.

"Wall Streeters Weigh Effect of a War on Business." Does that require much thought? First there's an artificial stimulation of war business and then there's a prolonged and ... le economic depression.

More Feeble-Minded Each Year.

THER the capacity of state institutions intended for ... care of feeble-minded persons can ever be expanded ...oint of providing space and supervision for all of the ... which commitment is deemed advisable by courts, is ...atical.

... course of an address given in Mansfield yesterday, ...ray Fowler, superintendent of the state hospital for ...inded at Applecreek, made the startling statement ...mmitment of approximately 2,000 feeble-minded per- ... Ohio is being deferred because there is no place to ... them.

Meanwhile these mental defectives, ranging from idiocy and imbecility to the more dangerous moron type, are permitted to be at large, without supervision or surveillance.

More thought-provoking, even, than realization of this present condition is the fact that in this low-mentality group are found the most prolific propagators of their kind, and that the problem of providing segregation or later penal facilities for various classes of sub-normal persons will become increasingly acute until steps are taken to remove the procreative powers from congenitally feeble-minded individuals and from habitual criminals.

Apparently every city has at least a small representation of unfortunates who come within the range of feeble-mindedness and, in many instances these persons are permitted a freedom which accounts for a large percentage of the illegitimate births and juvenile delinquency in the community.

For one reason or another, there has been hesitancy in Ohio to legalize sterilization, even in the most extreme cases of feeble-mindedness and criminality. More intimate knowledge of existing conditions, on the part of a majority of people in this state, might go far in encouraging legislative action along this line.

More Rain Promised.

THE LONG period of drought in this country seems definitely broken. A group of scientists studying the subject say the dry cycle apparently has spent itself and years of adequate rainfall may now be expected. The change has come in the last twelve months. For the first half of this year the average for the country was 12 per cent above normal.

This change follows an apparent turn in the sunspot cycle and is probably connected with it.

Simultaneously there are fewer magnetic storms such as have disturbed the natural magnetism of the earth and interfered with telephone, telegraph and radio communication during the last two or three years. Radio reception should improve from now on.

Although the scientists do not say much about it, there is probably reason to expect a lessening, too, in brainstorms. Human minds and emotions, the world over, have been upset in recent years, and many observers have thought there was a connection between them and the sun and weather disturbances.

Germany Shutting Herself In.

GERMAN military policy continues to look, to disinterested outsiders, strange, unwise and dangerous to Germany herself. This is particularly true of the huge and costly defense program by which Germany is said to be constructing fortifications, steel and concrete walls, underground airdromes and supply bases, and so on, around all her borders, including even her frontage on the North and Baltic seas.

This frenzied activity, which seems so menacing to her neighbors, is naturally compared with the "iron ring" which the imperial German government accused the Allies of building around it at the time of the World war. As an American commentator observes, "the strait-jacket they smashed through then was partly imaginary; now it is replaced by a real one, self-constructed."

While Nazi Germany professes to be shutting out an aggressive world bent on her destruction, she is actually shutting herself in from a world which, with wiser leadership in Berlin, would probably grant her more concessions peaceably than she can win by fighting.

Puerto Rico Forgiven.

GOVERNMENTS may be growing rougher in the Old World, but in this hemisphere they are growing gentler. At least in spots. ... s probably better, everything considered, than the European and Asiatic way. Nations nowadays need all their friends and little brothers.

Native Population.

THE latest census taken in Yellowstone National park makes pleasant reading. The enumerators report 520 black bears, 290 grizzlies, 14,300 elk, 900 deer, 800 buffalo, 800 antelope, 700 moose and 200 Rocky Mountain sheep.

Of course there are tens of thousands of smaller denizens, too, probably covering hundreds of interesting species.

All this adds immensely to our natural riches and our interest in life. Giving the original inhabitants a chance for survival is one of the finest things we have done.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—If the United States were a money-grabbing nation (which of course it is not) it could make a big cleaning out of a prolonged Russo-Japanese war.

Nothing could stop us. We could send goods across the Atlantic to Russia, including railroad cars to carry fighting stuff to the Oriental war zone. We could ship to Japan across the Pacific. Japan would not dare send its fleet to the Atlantic and Russia's fleet could not seriously interfere with U. S.-Japanese trade in the Pacific.

The principal trouble would be that neither side has enough money to pay for the goods for a prolonged war. Of course this country could lend money to both belligerents—and try to collect it afterward. But that's something else.

Authoritative observers here don't look for that sort of outcome. Neither side wants a major conflict—just now.

One source with access to inside channels said the Anglo-French agreemnet, tending to keep Hitler out of Czechoslovakia in view of France's pledge of aid to that little Central European republic, had relieved Russia of a major worry about its European end, leaving it free to tend to its Asiatic end.

Freed of this care, so this view goes, Russia took the aggressive in Manchoukuo (formerly Manchuria), occupying the important Changkufeng hill, the ownership of which had been in dispute several years. It is an important little spot, strategically. Inland it overlooks the rail connection from interior Manchoukuo to a port newly built by Japan. On the sea side, the hill also overlooks Possiet bay, which Russia has been building up to supplement Vladivostok.

Fight for Ports.

WHOEVER controls that hill will have an important strategic point in the Russo-Japanese war which some fear already has started and which many feel is inevitable.

Russia's fight for ports is historic. It has sacrificed hundreds of thousands of men and millions of dollars in a desperate effort to gain access to a year-'round seaport which cannot be blocked readily by an enemy. On the Atlantic side it must pass through narrow seaways out of the Baltic and North sea to reach the open ocean. Free access to the Mediterranean is blocked by Turkish control of the Dardanelles.

On the Pacific, Vladivostok is ice-bound three months of the year. So is the newly built port on Possiet bay, but two ports are better than one, even if ice-bound.

Long before Japan became a first line power, Russia sought control in Manchuria so as to have an all-weather port southward from Vladivostok. Even after Japan defeated China in 1895 Russia bluffed her out of Manchuria. Japan surrendered territory gained there during the war, agreeing to accept a cash indemnity from China instead. Russia then lent money to China to pay the indemnity. In return for the loan, Russia received many of the Manchurian concessions denied Japan, including use of Port Arthur as a naval base.

It's Different Now.

JAPAN, fresh and vibrant from rapid growth, struck back in 1904 to destroy Russian dominance in Manchuria. That war started without a formal declaration. Japan broke off diplomatic relations Feb. 8, 1904, and bombarded the Russian fleets Feb. 8 and 9, not declaring war formally until Feb. 10.

Now, 34 years later, Russia finds Japan, controlling Manchuria but desperately extended in China. The shoe is on the other foot, and Russia takes the opportunity to improve her position along the old Manchurian border.

Timely Editorial

Who Are Safest Drivers?

A National Safety Council expert says "a high grade moron makes the best operator of a motor vehicle and a college professor the worst."

This would be a discouraging statement, if left to stand by itself. Standing thus, it implies the ability to drive safely occurs in inverse ratio to the intelligence of the subject.

Happily that is not the case, as appears by examining what the expert really meant. He was referring to ATTENTIVENESS as the first requisite of safe driving. The high grade moron "knows his mental limitations and realizes that his entire attention must be given to the task." But the "college professor" does not. He is over-confident of his ability in the first place and in the second place has his mind so full of other things that attention wanders.

It is true, of course, that the highly intelligent have more thoughts and a greater tendency toward inattention than the less intelligent. But their intelligence ought to inform them of their obligation as drivers to be that much more attentive, and in the main it does, as accident statistics indicate. Intelligent drivers in the main really are the best drivers.—Detroit News.

A TWO-FISTED JOB

Court Ruling Protects Employer

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — The federal circuit court of appeals at Philadelphia recently rendered a decision which seems to make remarkably good sense in connection with labor disputes. It was a decision, too, which appears to be entirely satisfactory to upholders of the Wagner law and to the National Labor Relations Board.

It was not exactly a decision between labor and capital.

Capital's interest was indirectly involved in it, but more properly it was a decision between conflicting labor groups.

BACKGROUND

In this particular case the employing concern was quite willing to bargain collectively with its workers.

However, the concern had two opposing factions of workers—the A. F. of L. faction and the CIO faction. The concern could not very well bargain collectively with both of them at once, for, as we know, they are bitter rivals. The CIO claimed to be in a majority and the concern, presumably in good faith, arrived at a collective agreement with them. Thereupon the A. F. of L. faction struck.

Adherents of this faction of course had a perfect right to quit, but they also proceeded to picket.

This picketing was not specifically a picketing of the employing concern's plant. It was directed rather against the CIO. Nevertheless the concern itself was picketed and was seriously embarrassed by it.

BETWEEN TWO FIRES

The concern's reasoning was that it was being unfairly victimized by a fight in which it was entirely neutral—but it had to bargain with one group or the other and it used its best judgment as to which was in a majority.

Maybe the concern was mistaken. Unquestionably an election should have been held to decide the CIO-A. F. of L. issue.

But, under the Wagner law, such elections must be supervised by the NLRB. And the NLRB had not got around to supervise one, the Wagner law being a comparatively new thing, and the NLRB being snowed under with a multiplicity of activities in applying it, here, there and everywhere.

Meantime the concern complained that it was caught between two fires—it was "damned if it did and damned if it didn't," as the saying is.

SEEKS INJUNCTION

Accordingly the concern sought a district court anti-picketing injunction, pending an NLRB election to solve its problem.

It got the injunction and the appeals court upheld it.

Now it is up to the NLRB to hurry up with that election. Afterward, if the concern fails to acquiesce in the election result, picketing presumably will be perfectly proper. But, as I hear the story, from NLRB sources, the concern is quite willing to abide by the Warner's law provisions.

AS STEWART SEES IT

As a general proposition I am inclined to give the benefit of the doubt to labor in any case in which it has a stake, and to deplore anti-picketing injunctions.

Yet here seems to me to be an instance in which an apparently fair-minded employing concern is caught between the horns of a dilemma which it justly may ask the NLRB to deliver it from as speedily as possible.

Jurisdictional labor disputes always have been a nuisance.

Bosses are entitled to find fault when rival unions quarrel between themselves and strike against one another.

The boss, caught in the jam, may be just an innocent bystander.

I have my own personal sympathy as between the CIO and the A. F. of L., but I wish they would settle their rumpus. It is bad for all of us—economics, business, capital, labor, white-collarites and everybody.

Health Advice

Recent Advances In Use of X-ray.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHEN the x-ray was first announced 33 years ago, it was no wonder that few people could grasp its significance. Some thought it would never be useful for anything. Some flatly disbelieved in the idea of a kind of ray which would penetrate otherwise opaque material.

Then it became evident that it was very useful in the surgery of bone, and in the diagnosis not only of fractures and dislocations, but of every kind of disease of bones.

It was never thought that it could be useful in the diagnosis of disease of the soft tissues because these threw no shadow on the x-ray plate. But before long Dr. Cannon of Harvard showed that the powdery looking white salts of such metals as bismuth and barium could be made up into a sort of milk shake, and when swallowed would outline the stomach and intestines. Here was a new field for the x-ray, quickly followed by the findings that improvements in x-ray apparatus would allow the outline of the heart and the great arteries of the chest to be seen. Also the lungs were so clearly seen that even very small areas of diseased tissue could be made out. In this way, the diagnosis of tuberculosis has become very much more accurate and can often be made earlier than previously.

Went Still Further.

Here, one would have thought, the radiologist would have been content to stop, but no, he went on to other fields to conquer. Diseases of the gall-bladder, while common enough, were known to be difficult to recognize in all stages — and gallstones, unlike other stones, do not throw a shadow on the x-ray plate as a rule. But Dr. Evarts Graham of St. Louis devised a special chemical form of dye that is concentrated by the bile, and with this a normal gall-bladder can be distinguished from a diseased one and gallstones outlined, etc.

Even more remarkable was the introduction of a substance known as thorotrast. This has the remarkable quality, when it is injected into the body, of attaching itself to certain cells, known as the reticulo-endothelial cells. It forms a loose chemical combination with them and casts a dense black shadow on the x-ray plate.

Since the reticulo-endothelial cells are distributed in abundance to certain organs—spleen, liver, bone marrow—and hardly at all to others—kidneys for instance—we have a way of outlining the size and shape of these organs with an accuracy that could be obtained no other way.

Besides that, the reticulo-endothelial cells exist almost entirely in normal tissue and not at all in diseased tissue, so diseased tissue will be seen as punched out areas on such x-ray plates.

Even more recent are dyes which outline the heart valves and vessels of the lungs.

A Farmer's Diary

Swallows.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FALL is coming on. The evening and the nights are filled with insect voices. The hollyhocks are seeding. Great masses of golden glow flaunt beside the garden fence.

I can see and smell the real harvest time of the year approaching . . . the apple orchard, with bending branches and reddening fruit; the wild asters by silent streams or fencerows; tall corn stalks, weighted with large, downward-bending ears, on which the silk has turned a golden brown; the odor of ripening corn.

But a still more lively sign of early autumn is the row of swallows perched on the comb of the barn roof, stretching wings and legs, twittering, skimming on short excursions through the air, or dipping close to the surface of the meadow grass, then darting up again to their resting place. Hardly has one group alighted until another starts out, as if in relay, taking another course.

This same routine is kept up through hot August days, on telegraph wires, or long dead branches of chestnut trees, or high wire fences. They seem jubilant, conversing there together, combing their feathers, preening and oiling their wings and tails.

I imagine I can see them point their beaks southward, and speak of aerial sights of town and woodlands, of growing fields and inland lakes and rivers where tempting insects hover along the surface. Here they may feast as they lightly move along. They speak of mating time in winter haven, and the time when new-hatched babies with wide mouths, beg desperately for food.

When swallows leave, the summer soon is gone. Time, like the swallow, flits.

Listen, World!

Don't Belittle!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(What is the trend of thought in America today. What are the problems that beset your neighbors, from rural crossroads to sophisticated metropolis? Elsie Robinson throws open her column as a clearing house for letters from all America to all America, giving you an opportunity to see your world and yourself through the Other Fellow's eyes.)

AND now—clear-eyed, brave and contemptuous, young Dorothy Arsanian of Brooklyn, N. Y., takes the stage . . . with a question.

What is the greatest menace to American democracy? More perilous than Fascism, Communism, Nazism or Atheism . . . deadlier than poverty, hunger, crime and disease . . . the most vicious influence in our history?

With one word Dorothy answers her own question—BELITTLING." The Croakers and the Glooms, the Warners and the Weepers. "THEY ARE THE TERMITES WHICH ARE UNDERMINING THESE UNITED STATES," says this courageous Young American.

Dear Miss Robinson—

We young people face many difficulties as we take up the task of carrying our America on . . . and of making ourselves fit for that task. But the greatest menace of all—including all the isms and the threats of war—is the current, spreading blight of BELITTLING.

You know the people I mean. The creatures who are always DISCOURAGING . . . always WARNING . . . always UNDERMINING . . . always TAKING THE JOY OUT OF LIFE. They are HUMAN TERMITES, these creatures. They tear down hope, enthusiasm and ambition with their everlasting "DONT'S" and plant, in their place, the seeds of fear, hate and distrust.

And the young people are peculiarly helpless before them because they come in the guise of seeming friendliness and superior experience. Often they are our nearest friends or our own relations . . . and the more dangerous because they truly "speak for your own good, child." BUT WHAT IS THE RESULT OF THEIR WARNING? DISCOURAGEMENT . . . LOSS OF HOPE AND FAITH . . . COWARDLY SURRENDER.

For example—mention to them that you are planning to take up medicine, law, engineering or some other worthy course of study. Immediately their mouths drop open in horror, they fall back, wailing—"Oh, my dear, don't think of it! Look at all the unemployed engineers, lawyers, doctors, etc. See how overcrowded the field it, etc., etc., etc."

Or perhaps you mention your desire to be a writer, actor or artist. They literally shriek warnings. "How can you think of such a thing! The pity of it! You're throwing your life away! What chance does a writer or an actor have in THESE days?"

Or, if you're older and have a family, mention your plans for your children and hear the knocker's chorus. "Educate children? What for? For gun-fodder? For prospective relief clients. My God, how can you think of it!"

So on they go—moaning, sobbing, crying . . . crying, sobbing, moaning! ALWAYS BELITTLING! ALWAYS UNDERMINING! ALWAYS TAKING THE JOY AND HOPE OUT OF LIFE.

Listen, you Termites! It's true that many of us may never realize our high hopes for ourselves or our children. But please, oh please, give us at least our chance to hope and dream and struggle. AND DON'T LICK US BEFORE WE START WITH YOUR VICIOUS HOPELESSNESS. Of all the enemies our country has ever faced, you DON'Ters are the worst! No spy, no traitor, no downright cheat ever betrayed America as you are betraying it.

If you haven't the courage to live and laugh and hope . . . if your warped natures can only be satisfied by blighting someone else's bright dream. . . . then let me tell you this—"LAY OFF! AMERICA HAS NO USE FOR YOUR BREED! DEMOCRACY IS FOUNDED ON COURAGE . . . THE COURAGE TO DREAM. EVEN THOUGH YOU ARE IN RAGS! THE COURAGE TO FIGHT . . . EVEN THOUGH YOU LIE WOUNDED! AND WE YOUNG AMERICANS HAVE THAT COURAGE! WE DARE TO HOPE . . . WE DARE TO HAVE FAITH—IN OUR COUNTRY, IN OUR GOVERNMENT, IN OURSELVES AND THE CHILDREN WHO WILL FOLLOW US.

As for you cowards—if you dare not swim, with the rest of us, at least have the decency to beat it back into the tall timber."

Mrs. Dorothy Arsanian age 26,
Brooklyn N. Y.

And in the name of all real, red-blooded human beings who have listened to you, child, I cry —BRAVO!"

Man About Manhattan

Looks Over New Orleans

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW ORLEANS — Unless you are one of those unimaginative souls to whom custom means nothing, you must order a Ramos gin fizz the moment you arrive in New Orleans, even before you check into your hotel, for this—as anyone will tell you—is the Deep South's most celebrated refreshment. Like everything else down here, it has a tradition and a history.

You must do this for the same reason that you go to the French Market after midnight for coffee and sourdough doughnuts, or to Galatoire's for shrimp a la creole, or to Antoine's for pompono or cafe bruiot. You do these things because you can never hope to savor New Orleans unless you do.

I THINK if one of my friends were to visit New Orleans and come away without having a Ramos fizz I would avoid him thereafter as one bereft of his senses. I would know he was wacky, because that is one of the things you don't do when you come to New Orleans. You don't get out of town without leaning against the Roosevelt bar and saying at least once, "A Ramos, Sam."

Why is this? Don't ask me. Why do people throw coins into wishing wells? Why do you knock on wood, cross your fingers, and refuse to walk under ladders? It's just one of those things, like tossing your lei into the sunset when you leave Honolulu. If you don't do it, according to one school of thought, you become an untouchable and labor under a stigma till the end of your days.

Probably he didn't know it himself at the time, but back in the '80's, when Henry C. Ramos came up one night with something he thought might be pleasing to the palate and find favor among his guests, he had happened on a combination of ingredients that was to win a fortune and perpetuate his name. It became famous and everybody in New Orleans was treating their friends to the new fizz.

"IT WAS not uncommon," goes the story, "for travellers to visit Ramos' famous establishment as soon as they arrived in New Orleans and before they registered at hotels. The bar was the rendezvous for the best people of New Orleans and America's greatest celebrities. At one time eight governors were counted at the bar. And so famous became the original fizz that at times 33 bartenders or mixers were required to handle the customers who often stood before the bar three rows deep."

Time passed and Ramos passed on too, but the fizz remains. It is copyrighted now, owned by his son, Carl C. Ramos, who has leased the rights to a few reputable hotels throughout the country. The Roosevelt, for instance, has exclusive rights for the state of Louisiana. There are one or two hotels in New York where it may be ordered, and in Chicago and Cleveland you may have it too. But for every on sold a royalty must be paid to the son of the "master mixologist of his time."

Leaves Capital Today After Calling for Defeat of Tydings, O'Connor.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt leaves the capital again today after a five-day stay during which he projected the threat of a party purge to primaries in states where congressional candidates for renomination have "betrayed" the New Deal.

He will board his special train this afternoon for Kingston, Ont., where he will receive an honorary degree from Queens college tomorrow. Before returning to his home at Hyde Park, he and Canadian Prime Minister Mackenzie King will dedicate a new international bridge in the Thousand Islands. He probably will not return to Washington until early next month.

Mr. Roosevelt leaves with his policy on primary contests well defined. At his press conference yesterday he broadened his purge of conservative Democratic congressmen by denouncing Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) and Rep. John O'Connor (D., N. Y.) and by leaving the implication that more names would be added to the list of those who have "betrayed the New Deal in the past and will again."

Bitter Attack.

The attack on these anti-New Dealers, anticipated for several days, was the most bitter he has made—even more outspoken than his plea to Georgia voters last week for the defeat of Sen. Walter F. George (D., Ga.)

But like George, O'Connor, described by the president as "one of the most effective obstructionists in the lower house," struck back. Accepting the challenge in a brief formal statement, he said that the voters of the 16th congressional New York district "alone will decide" whom to elect. He added, pointedly: "The president lives in the 26th district. 'Ham' (Hamilton) Fish (R., N. Y.) is his congressman."

The president's purge of O'Connor and Tydings was his fourth since returning from a month's fishing vacation.

Under existing circumstances, he said, there was nothing for him to do but publicly repudiate "betrayers." There would be no cause for interference if men like Tydings asked reelection as a member of the "Republican opposition to the New Deal," he added, since the issue would be clear.

"But Tydings tells the voters he supports the 'bone and sinew' of the New Deal. He wants to run with the Roosevelt prestige and the money of his conservative Republican friends both on his side.

"In that case it becomes the president's right and duty to tell the people what he thinks of Millard Tydings."

such as urged by the Communist party.

Rep. Mason, interrupting Chaillaux, quoted Robert Marshall, one of the government officials named, as having declared that he favors public ownership of oil lands both in Mexico and the United States.

Delving into recruiting of Americans for the Spanish loyalist army, Chaillaux said that many extravagant promises had been made to the men. These promises, he said, were not kept.

Chaillaux named the American League Against War and the North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy as organizations tied in with the Communist party.

The committee also today planned to begin a secret investigation of charges that labor department officials advised Harry Bridges, west coast labor leader, in his fight to escape deportation on Communist charges.

Although Chairman Dies declared that the committee sought to avoid conflict with government agencies, it appeared that the inquiry would go far beyond the labor department.

The committee was to hear a woman representative of a Pacific coast patriotic organization submit evidence in secret session designed to establish that government officials gave aid to Bridges.

Files of the labor department were also to be examined by the committee, with further investigation later when the committee visits the Pacific coast.

After the committee yielded to demands for investigation of the Bridges case, Dies ordered the secret examination of the woman witness to determine whether there is a basis for the charge. He indicated that the evidence may be made public later.

With 30 witnesses summoned to Washington, many of whom are said to be ready to testify that Communists have gained control of the theater and writers' projects of the federal WPA, it became known that Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, will be invited to make a reply.

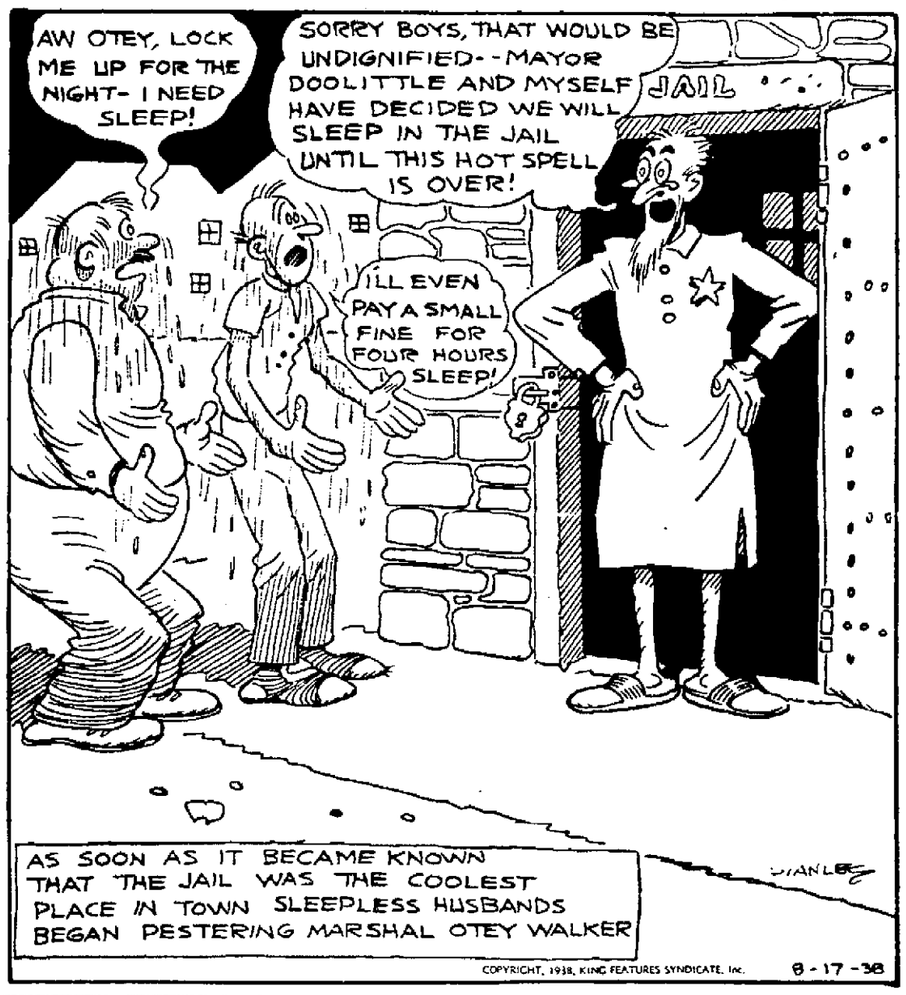

Committee members were also said to want to question Hopkins on the workers' alliance, composed chiefly of WPA workers, which John P. Frey, of the American Federation of Labor, branded as "shot through" with Communist leaders.

TELLS CLUB OF OHIO'S LAXITY IN CARE FOR FEEBLE-MINDED

Shortage of Ohio's facilities to provide institutional care for feeble-minded persons was stressed during a talk given at Tuesday's Rotary club meeting by Dr. Murray Fowler, superintendent of the state hospital for the feeble-minded, at Applecreek, near Wooster.

Dr. Fowler revealed that at least 2,000 persons who have been formally committed to such institutions are still permitted to be at large in the state because there is no room in any of the state hospitals intended to handle such cases.

He explained the several degrees of feeble-mindedness, classed as idiot, imbecile and moron, and also told of the inclination of feeble-minded persons to intermarry, thus producing more feeble-minded children to become public charges.

"But in spite of all this," said Dr. Fowler, "it seems impossible to secure enactment of a sterilization law in this state."

Differences between insanity, in its various phases, and feeble-mindedness, were also touched upon during the talk, with explanation that victims of insanity can frequently be cured, whereas feeble-mindedness indicates inherent mental weakness that can never be entirely overcome.

Dr. Fowler stated that the Applecreek institution, which has been in operation about seven years, was originally planned to care for 3,000 patients but that construction work has been delayed on account of shortage of funds and that only between 500 and 600 patients can be handled at this time.

Robert C. Remy was program chairman of the meeting, at which R. D. Iden, club president, presided.

HITS COUNTY IN HIGHWAY 'DEAL'

Examiner Says Sandusky Road Work Bids 'Farce.'

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—The state bureau of public inspection returned a finding of $4,413 against two Sandusky county commissioners and a Columbus asphalt dealer today in connection with illegal purchase of asphalt for Sandusky county roads.

The audit report termed the county commissioners' procedure in purchasing the materials "more or less a farce" and that it showed "utter disregard for the best interests of taxpayers of Sandusky county."

The finding was individually and collectively against Commissioners Guy H. Keeler and William Stine, their bondsmen, and Claude C. Waltermier, Columbus asphalt dealer, who was awarded the illegal contract.

RELIEF NO PROBLEM DURING JULY FOR THREE TOWNSHIPS

Three of Richland county's 17 townships last month were without a single relief case, according to figures released today by Relief Director Earl A. Nist, which showed a case load of 1,447 indigent families.

The report showed 4,516 persons in Richland county on relief with the monthly encumbrance totaling $17,223.

The three townships without a single relief case were Jackson, Sandusky, and Perry. Washington township had only one case and listed expenditures for the month at $38.

Outside of Madison township, which spent $3,154 for 306 families, Springfield lead in the number of relief cases being cared for. Nist listed expenditures of $356 for 32 families. Mifflin spent $116 for its 17 indigent families.

The report listed expenditures for the other townships at:

Plymouth, nine cases with expenditures totaling $172; Weller with six cases, $141; Sharon with eight cases, $136; Bloominggrove with five cases, $82; Butler with four cases, $66; Cass with eight cases, $85; Franklin with four cases, $15; Jefferson with five and expenditures of $24; Troy, ten cases at the cost of $71.

CALLS BERRY'S AIDS IN PROBE OF MARBLE CASE

TVA Committee Wants to Know More About Norris Dam Holdings.

(By Asscciated Press)

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—House and senate investigators of the Tennessee Valley authority called former business associates of Sen. George L. Berry (D., Tenn.) today for additional testimony regarding the senator's mineral and marble holdings in the Norris dam area.

Senator Berry denied before the committee yesterday that he had tried to defraud the government. The controversy that arose over his claims for damages was the result, he said, "of the bitter antagonism between members of the TVA board."

He referred to Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted TVA chairman, and directors David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan.

When Berry finished his version of the marble case the committee summoned C. A. Harris of Fountain City, Tenn., and George Collins of Frankfort, Ky., former Berry associates, to testify today.

Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan were scheduled to follow them.

Tried For Settlement.

Senator Berry said he tried to reach an amicable settlement with the authority after his holdings were inundated, adding he never made a specific claim for damages or set a value on the flooded property.

There was a "friendly and cordial" meeting July 10, 1936, between himself and Harcourt Morgan, Berry said, at which an agreement was reached to conciliate the claims.

He asserted he acted in good faith and presumed that the authority did likewise.

"Did you not know," asked Rep. Thomas Jenkins (R., Ohio) "that Fly (James Lawrence Fly, TVA general counsel) and other TVA officials did not intend to abide by the decision of a conciliator if it had been adverse to them?"

"No, I'd be disappointed to learn that," the senator replied, adding 'I didn't need the money. I'm no miser. I'd give it away if I have it. It's just that I'm the kind of American that does not want the government to come in and take his property and pitch it in the back yard."

He denied he told his associate, George Collins, that he expected to settle the claims with the TVA with Dr. Arthur Morgan "out" as chairman, and said he did not want to sue the government.

SHELBY AWAITS RELIEF FUNDS

Needs Tax Share From County to Aid Needy as City Coffers Are Bare.

SHELBY—City officials today awaited funds from the county commissioners for Shelby's share of taxes for relief purposes, Bert Fix, director of finance, disclosed today.

Unless funds come from the county commissioners before Aug 20, Fix said no relief could be given out. Relief checks are given out on that date.

The city's relief coffers are empty, Fix said, and no other revenue available at present to continue the present relief program. Shelby spends about $1,000 a month for relief. Of this amount the county commissioners have been allocating about $475 and the city the balance.

Over 250 persons are on relief here. Seventy-five families are on the rolls while others have been placed on WPA projects and street improvement programs, city officials stated. Action is expected to be taken later this month to provide additional revenue for relief purposes, city officials announced.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

Tailored Suits Point to Fall

Two of the cinema's vivid young actresses appear here in trimly tailored suits. Jane Wyman (left) wears one of periwinkle blue wool with a rose angora sweater and navy blue accessories. Miss Martha Hering Will Be Bride of John Tillotson Oct. 23

OF CONSIDERABLE interest to the Mansfield social set is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Martha Hering, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hering, 190 West Second street, to John Tillotson of Springfield, Mass. Mr. Tillotson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Tillotson of Minneapolis, Minn.

The engagement was announced yesterday by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Hering, at a tea given at the family home. About 30 guests were entertained between the hours of 4 and 5:30 p. m.

Tea was served at a table decorated in a color scheme of pink and white. An unusual centerpiece consisted of the photographs of the engaged couple mounted on a satin covered dias and flanked by graduated tapers twined with tiny pink flowers. A wide pink satin ribbon extending from the dias bore the date, Oct. 22.

Miss Hering attended Antioch college at Yellow Springs and took her degree at Denison university at Granville. Mr. Tillotson is a graduate of Antioch college.
